Two B.C. Men Drown Trying to Rescue Boy

Tragedy Strikes Immigrants' Fishing Party On Fraser River; U.S. Visitor Third Victim

From BUP and CP Dispatches
Two New Westminster men lost their lives Sunday in a heroic attempt to rescue the son of one of them from the Fraser River.

Dead are: John Zamaitis, 34, and John Bulfonas, 28. Zamaitis' eight-year-old son, Wilus, was thrown into the river off a log boom when Bulfonas caught a fish hook in the boy's pants.

The two men dove in after the boy and Zamaitis got his son out of the water.

A third member of the fishing party, John Belesis, 32, was in a car when he said he heard the two men yelling for help. He ran down to the shore and onto the log boom, but by that time the two men had disappeared under the water.

Belesis threw the boy a long strip of bark from the log boom and then dragged him to safety.

The RCMP and civilians dragged the river for two and a half hours before the bodies were recovered Sunday night about 30 feet from shore.

The men were members of a party of nine Lithuanian immigrants on a fishing picnic.

In another drowning fatality Theodore Russell Larsen, 19, of Bellingham, Wash., lost his life when his small boat was swamped in Harrison Lake. A companion, David Charles Thomas, also of Bellingham, swam 60 feet to shore.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett announced in Victoria that "B.C. is in the oil business," with the proving of Pacific West Buick Creek Number 3.

"We have lots of gas wells up there," said the premier, "but this is the first oil well in B.C." He was informed of the news through a phone call from George McMahon, head of Pacific Petroleum.

"Geologists have known for some time that the Peace River had great oil possibilities. The government hopes this first well will be the site of a large field."

GALVANIZES FIELD
Oil companies, which have poured millions of dollars into the north country in recent years in a relentless search for oil, are expected to start immediately on wells adjacent to the West Buick Creek Number 3 find.

The discovery well struck oil-bearing sands in a Nika Nasses formation 28 feet thick. Premier Bennett said the oil was of "good quality" with a gravity of 35.37.

First drillstem tests showed 110 feet of oil, the second 2,780 feet, and the third 440 feet. In 1951 a similar discovery was made near Fort St. John, but later tests showed the oil could not be separated from large quantities of water in the oil pool, and the well was later abandoned.

'Look Out', He Says, 'Or You'll Get Locked In'

Hot and heavy words were tossed back and forth today when H. H. Woodhead threw garbage on a scow at city's garbage wharf. W. G. Hook, in charge of wharf, was involved with Mr. Woodhead in vocal fracas.

Acting as semi-arbitrator was B. McNair, assistant city engineer. Mr. Woodhead and coupe were locked on wharf for half-hour, released after city police arrived on scene. (Times Photo.)

Leaders Agree To Press for Asia Defense

Eisenhower, Churchill Prod France To Ratify European Army Plan

WASHINGTON (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill and President Eisenhower declared today they will "press forward with plans for collective defense" of Southeast Asia, regardless of whether peace negotiations for Indo-China are successful.

In a 'communique, they also expressed "conviction that further delay" in the creation of a European Defense Community and granting of sovereignty to West Germany, "would damage the solidarity of the Atlantic nations."

This was apparently intended to prod France to get on with ratification of EDC.

On another major point, the American and British leaders jointly declared that "both our countries would benefit" from "technical co-operation" on atomic energy to the fullest extent permitted by United States law.

The communique, issued at the White House, was the first formal statement out of the four-day round of talks here on British-American policy differences.

The communique left unanswered the critical question of when an international conference to create a Southeast Asia anti-Communist alliance might be called.

This has been a major issue, with Britain wanting no definite action pending a conclusion of present French efforts to negotiate peace in Indo-China.

The United States on the other hand desires quick action. The communique appeared to bear out reports on continued disagreement by failure to report any agreement.

"We are both convinced" the communique said, "that if at Geneva the French government is confronted with demands which prevent an acceptable agreement regarding Indo-China, the international situation will be seriously aggravated."

This was one of three terse paragraphs dealing with the Southeast Asia, and it set forth (Continued on Page 23)

Plane Crash Kills Priest, Alberta A-G Injured

COCHRANE, Alta. (CP)—A 29-year-old priest was killed Sunday when a light plane piloted by Alberta Attorney General Lucien Maynard crashed and burned near a cemetery adjoining a Franciscan retreat in this foothills town.

Killed was Rev. Vincent Prosser, professor at St. Anthony's College, Edmonton, and formerly of Sutton, Ont. He was trapped in the wreckage and burned to death.

Mr. Maynard believed flying his own plane, was thrown clear when the plane crashed. He was taken to hospital in Calgary, 25 miles east, suffering a broken arm, undetermined internal injuries and cuts. His condition was described as good.

'JUST THREW IT'

"He just threw it on the scow," said Mr. Hook indignantly. But Mr. Woodhead said the incinerators were locked, so he couldn't very well put his garbage there.

Actually, incinerators had locks and chains on them, but the locks weren't locked. "I got a big long argument," said Mr. Woodhead.

He was locked on the wharf from 10:45 to 11:15. Mr. Hook unlocked the gate after the confab with the police in the wharf office.

On hand also was B. McNair, assistant engineer for the city who asked of the reporter: (Continued on Page 13)

Citizen Incarcerated On City Wharf

Police Called To End Dispute

By TONY DICKASON
Metal gates clanged shut, and chain and padlock incarcerated a Victoria citizen today who went to the city's garbage wharf to dump garbage.

H. H. Woodhead, 1517 Brook Street, owner of the Jolly Friar restaurant, was locked on the wharf, with his car, following a vocal dispute with "inside" city worker W. G. Hook, who looks after the wharf.

Ten striking "outside" city workers picketed the wharf, and nonchalantly tossed a handball as the argument mounted.

A city policeman arrived, and in the face of accusations and counter accusations between Mr. Woodhead and Mr. Hook, suggested the affair be carried on in private. All adjourned to the wharf office.

Loud voices still boomed, easily heard. In the general melee, what seems to have happened is that Mr. Woodhead took garbage to the wharf, with the firm intention of getting rid of it. He dumped it on the garbage scow anchored there. This procedure annoyed Mr. Hook, who would have preferred garbage to have been placed in incinerators.

Reynolds said the communique, published in 186 newspapers, caused Collier's magazine to drop him after 17 well-paid years, and made him "dead" in radio, television and Hollywood.

TRUMAN PASSES CRITICAL NIGHT

Flo Chadwick to Take First Dip In Cadboro Bay on Thursday

Florence Chadwick will take her first dip in Victoria waters at Cadboro Bay between 3 and 3:30 p.m. Thursday, her head coach, Archie McKinnon, announced today.

Miss Chadwick is due to arrive at Pat Bay Airport at 10:50 Thursday, and after reception and lunch, plans to get down to her five weeks training grind immediately.

Mr. McKinnon says he does not want Florence to take a long swim the first day. "It will be a question of getting acclimatized to our waters for the first few days," he said. "She had been doing a training routine in indoor pools in recent weeks, but they are usually 70 to 75 degrees. It will take her a little while to get used to the lower temperature of the Strait."

Miss Chadwick will drive to Victoria from the airport in an Oldsmobile convertible placed at her disposal for her stay here, by Wilson Motors Ltd. She has booked space at the Cadboro Auto Court for her training period.

Fred Manning, vice-president of B.A. Paint Company which is posting the $10,000 prize for Florence's swim, will meet her at the airport with Times publisher Stuart Keate, and accompany her to town.

Her arrival Thursday will stimulate interest in the estimating contest on her swim sponsored by Bapco and The Times to help Queen Alexandra Solarium. Official coupons, 1 hour 58 mins.

2½-Hour Talk Proves Fruitless

'Strike Still On', Says Wyatt
Union Leaders Refuse Comment

By DAVE STOCK
Hope for an immediate end to the 12-day-old strike by city outside workers failed to materialize after officers of the union met with officials at city hall for 2½ hours today.

At the conclusion of the long session, union spokesmen would say nothing. City manager Cecil Wyatt said only, "the strike is still on."

It was understood members of the union at a meeting Sunday night voted in favor of returning to work while their dispute with the city was resolved by arbitration.

This was in accordance with a request made by City Council Friday.

At the same time the union's agreement to resort to this course was acknowledged to be "conditional," and it was presumed the city was not prepared to meet all of the conditions.

Some of the 250 men concerned in the walk-out earlier today had expressed hopes they would be back at work Tuesday.

There was no indication of any further meetings between the two sides later in the day. Officers of the union and their solicitor, J. Ronald Grant, met with city manager Wyatt for three-quarters of an hour then went with the manager to see the mayor. That meeting lasted one hour and a half.

Pegler Guilty Of Libel, Judge Rules

NEW YORK (AP)—Federal Judge Edward Winfield told a jury today that columnist Westbrook Pegler clearly had libeled author Quentin Reynolds in a 1949 column. He said Reynolds is entitled to damages.

It will be up to the jury to determine the amount. Reynolds filed the $500,000 libel suit against Pegler and Hearst Publications, charging the writer in a 1949 column called him "pro-Communist, immoral, a coward, a war profiteer, a slacker and an absentee war correspondent."

Reynolds said the column, published in 186 newspapers, caused Collier's magazine to drop him after 17 well-paid years, and made him "dead" in radio, television and Hollywood.

71-Year Climber Only Survivor of Mt. Api Assault

NEW DELHI, India (Reuters)—An Italian Himalayan expedition has conquered 23,399-foot Mount Api in northwestern Nepal, but paid the highest penalty in recent mountaineering history for success.

Three of the four Italian mountaineers died in the attempt. Only the fourth, the leader, Piero Ghiglione, 71, is returning, a broken man, to New Delhi.

George Rosenkrantz and Joseph Barenghi made the final successful attempt on the summit in the first half of June. Trapped by monsoon blizzards they perished 20,000 feet up on the mountain.

Earlier, before the assault began, Roberto Bignami, another Italian mountaineer, was killed when he fell from a log bridge into the foaming river Kall on the Indo-Nepal frontier.

KATMANDU, Nepal (Reuters)—Sir Edmund Hillary, leader of the New Zealand expedition to the Barun glacier in the northeastern Nepalese Himalayas, has arrived here from Calcutta, India.

Blind Ex-Marine Hero Saves Three From River

MOBILE, Ala. (UP)—Ex-Marine Charles Vines, 22, blinded by a mortar shell in Korea, was hailed as a hero today for saving three persons from drowning in a rescue by sound.

Barbara Wood, 15, and Annie Louise Ball, 18, were wading along the banks of the swift Pascagoula River near Lucedale, Miss., late Sunday when they stepped into deep water and were quickly swept into mid-stream.

James Peacock, 22, recovering from an illness, attempted to rescue the girls and he too was swept into mid-stream by a strong undercurrent. He shouted his predicament to Vines.

Vines, realizing he was the only one who could prevent them all from drowning, swam to the girls as they cried out for help.

Since he could not see, he directed himself as best he could in the direction from whence their cries came.

Barbara's mother, Mrs. James A. Wood, who with her husband

PARIS (UP)—French Premier Pierre Mendes-France said today he has his own last-resort plan for a European army, if bickering French factions fail to agree on the European defense community in its present form.

The new premier told news-men he has evolved a plan of his own, but he refused to disclose its details.

The 47-year-old Radical Socialist insisted the scheme he has would be "a substitute solution." But observers accepted this as a play on words. They said it would be difficult to imagine any "substitute plan" which would not alter the project as drafted in May, 1952, and since ratified by all the partners except France and Italy.

Mendes-France also outlined these principal points of his policy:

1. He is genuinely confident he will succeed in getting an Indo-China cease-fire before the July 20 deadline he set for himself.

2. He has no plans to go to Geneva at present but would like to see the foreign ministers reassemble there by July 12 for the final phase of the Far East conference.

3. He will send his secretary of state for foreign affairs, 58-year-old Guerin-de-Beaumont, to Bonn (West Germany) Friday or Saturday to make direct contact with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. He will explain in detail why France was opposed to a suggested EDC meeting in Brussels this week. De Beaumont also will discuss the Franco-German dispute over the Saarland.

4. Support of a large majority of the French public for the European army is more important than "details as to methods, which can easily be worked out."

Members of his entourage formally denied he might go to Washington soon. But their denials were careful to emphasize they did not expect him to go "before July 20."

Reports of the Washington trip have been persistent recently.

Adenauer's Party Beaten In State Vote

DUESSELDORF, Germany (CP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democrat party suffered a setback today in a state election involving a quarter of West Germany's voters.

A Christian Democrat-Centre Party coalition in the North Rhine-Westphalia district, Germany's biggest state, lost its majority in the face of Social Democrat gains in state polling Sunday, according to unofficial results announced early today.

The coalition's campaign rested almost entirely on the chancellor's popularity.

Social Democrats won 76 seats in the new 200 seat house; the Christian Democrats 90; Free Democrats 25; Centre Party 9.

In the old 215 seat House the Social Democrats had 67; Christian Democrats 94; Free Democrats 26; Centre Party 16; Communists 1.

The Communists were wiped out in the election.

Hitler's SS Troops Not Allowed Into Canada, Harris Tells House

OTTAWA (CP)—Immigration Minister Harris says that, generally speaking, members of Hitler's wartime SS troops are not allowed into Canada as immigrants.

But that does not mean that general German army troops are barred.

"I have always taken the view that service in the German army by a German national should not be held against him," said Mr. Harris during a Commons immigration debate Saturday.

"That is his duty in time of war. . . . The fact that he was in the German army should not be held against him."

However, Canada never has consciously admitted men who served in the SS troops. There had been reports that some were in Canada, said the minister. That was possible. He recognized that immigration officers can be deceived.

INVESTIGATE RECORD
There was a time during the Second World War when nationals of countries occupied by Germany were conscripted into SS divisions. In the case of an application from such a person the immigration department investigated whether he served as a volunteer or conscript as well as his personal record.

He was replying to W. H. Herridge (CCF, Kootenay West). Mr. Herridge said a manager of a national employment service office reported "the arrogance with which a former SS man treated him because he could not give him a job immediately."

Mr. Herridge recalled the experience with another immigrant who did not like Canada.

Churchill Will Give Canada Full Report

Details of U.S. Talks To Be Revealed At Meetings Opening in Ottawa Tuesday

By VICTOR MACKIE

Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill and Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, will have ample opportunity to brief the Canadian government on developments or decisions arising out of the Washington meetings.

Canadians have been gravely concerned over the evident deterioration in the diplomatic relations between the United Kingdom and the United States. The government here has been disturbed by the apparent clash in policy statements emanating from Washington and London. Consequently the cabinet in Ottawa is looking forward to its conference this week with the British prime minister and foreign secretary.

Sir Winston and his party will arrive in Ottawa at 5.45 p.m. EDT Tuesday aboard the RCAF C-5 aircraft which carried Prime Minister L. S. St. Laurent around the world. It is Canada's "VIP" plane.

After being welcomed by Prime Minister St. Laurent and the United Kingdom high commissioner, Sir Archibald Nye, Sir Winston will inspect a tri-service guard of honor. Members of the Canadian cabinet, heads of mission of commonwealth and NATO countries and other dignitaries will then greet Sir Winston and Mr. Eden.

The British party, including Sir Winston, will be accommodated in the Chateau Laurier in the absence from Ottawa of Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, governor-general of Canada.

Two Dinner Meetings Scheduled

Promptly at 6.30 p.m. Ottawa time the British prime minister and Canada's prime minister will dine together privately in the hotel with Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of trade and commerce, and Sir Archibald Nye. In another hotel suite Mr. Eden and Hon. L. B. Pearson, secretary of state for external affairs, will dine together and exchange views on the developments in the international situation.

Wednesday at 10.30 a.m. Sir Winston, accompanied by Mr. Eden will call upon Prime Minister St. Laurent and meet other members of the Canadian government in the east block of the Parliament Buildings. They will outline for the benefit of the Canadian cabinet during the morning meeting, the results of the Washington discussions with President Eisenhower and members of his government.

Anxious to Learn Future Planning

It is obvious that the program of Sir Winston's visit to Ottawa has been arranged to provide ample opportunity for the Canadian government to obtain a detailed report of what transpired at Washington. Canada is vitally interested in development in southeast Asia as Mr. Pearson's recent report on the International situation to the Commons amply illustrated.

With the military-political situation in Indo-China now taking a new turn, Canada is anxious to know what the American planning is for the future and what the British attitude will be towards those plans. The Canadian government believes every effort should be made to bring the war there to an end on terms which France and the associated states of Indo-China followed by international arrangements with a maximum of free Asian participation, to guarantee any settlement reached.

As a long range view the Canadian government wants to see a collective security system for southeast Asia with a maximum of free Asian participation.

Ancient Coffin Of Pharaoh Found Empty

Expected to Hold 4,700-Year Mummy

CAIRO (Reuters)—The greatest archaeological bubble of the century was burst Sunday when it was found that the recently discovered Sakkara sarcophagus was just an empty coffin.

Dr. Zakaria Gonen, who discovered the rose alabaster sarcophagus a month ago, expected it to contain the treasure bedecked mummy of a pharaoh who lived 4,700 years ago.

Sunday his employers, the Egyptian department of antiquities, announced that the sarcophagus, located in an unfinished stepped pyramid 15 miles southeast of here was opened Sunday and found "completely empty."

"It is believed the body of the king was buried in some other place," the announcement added.

Dr. Mustapha Amer, director general of the antiquities department said:

"We decided to examine the sarcophagus prior to the official opening which was planned for next week."

The climax—or anti-climax—to the most-publicized Egyptian archaeological expedition since the end of the war leaves the discovery of Tutankhamen's tomb on Nov. 5, 1922, the unchallenged archaeological triumph of modern times.

It was the only tomb of an Egyptian pharaoh to be discovered intact, unlooted and containing a mummy.

Soviet's Racial Murder Plan Told By Former MVD

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—A

former Russian secret police commander told in chilling detail today how he helped betray and deport a million of Stalin's subjects because they wanted independence from the Kremlin.

Lieut.-Col. Grigori Stepanovich Buritski, 36, emerged into the glare of television floodlights to tell of racial murder in the Soviet Union. He deserted to the West last June but it was kept secret until he testified today before a U.S. congressional committee on Communist aggression, now in session here.

He told how a million people were fooled into believing Soviet overtures of friendship so that they dropped their guard. Then they found themselves herded into cattle cars for deportation to the wastes of Siberia under the guns of men entertaining them as guests.

Buritski said the Kremlin could not tolerate any independence movements so simply wiped out whole regions, leaving the land silent and deserted until new settlers could be found.

Buritski said the Kremlin during the Second World War wiped out the tiny autonomous state of Cecheno-Ingush in the Caucasus. Its 500,000 independence-loving people were deported "to distant and unknown parts of the Soviet Union," he said.

He said the people were rounded up Sept. 23, 1944, under the ruse of a festival celebrating Red army victories. Striped of all weapons, they were given an hour to pack then loaded in railroad cars which were locked and sealed.

Of Blame and Alibis

MR. JAMES RESTON, CHIEF Washington correspondent of The New York Times, explains with bitter irony "How to make a crisis worse than it really is." The trick, as he says, in reference to the passing disagreements between Britain and the United States, is to distort the historic facts, blame the other fellow and find an alibi for your own mistakes. And with refreshing candor Mr. Reston blames the American Government for doing all these things, rather clumsily, in the last few months.

"It takes unusual gifts of ingenuity," he says, "to make the Indo-China crisis worse than it is, but Washington has devised a number of ways of doing it." One way is to concentrate on the allocation of blame for all failures and disappointments and this can be done in several ways—by blaming the United States' allies, the Republicans, the Democrats, or preferably all of them together.

Mr. Dulles used the first method in Los Angeles a few days ago. His admirable speech on foreign policy there, already noted in this column, was marred by an incredibly crude distortion of history at Britain's expense.

He said, in effect, that he had patiently erected a firm united front against communism in Southeast Asia, only to find the British Government suddenly walking out on its agreement. Then he invoked one of the most stubborn and false myths of modern times—the myth that the United States tried to stop Japanese aggression against Manchuria in 1931 but could get no support in London.

Anyone who has read the diaries of Secretary of State Stimson knows that while he favored intervention against Japan and proposed it to the British Government, he had no support from President Hoover or from the American Congress. Mr. Stimson was too honest to distort these facts when he wrote them down in his old age. Yet Mr. Dulles has deliberately destroyed them in what Mr. Reston calls "one of the most misleading over-simplifications ever uttered by an American Secretary of State."

More and Better Teachers

BRITISH COLUMBIA SCHOOL teachers, through their federation executive, have expressed satisfaction with the Government's creation of a new post—that of co-ordinator of teacher training—and the appointment to it of Dr. F. Henry Johnson.

From this beginning they expect the development of a new system of teacher training. They hope, and with some reason, that it will follow the lines suggested by a special committee from their own federation and endorsed by the general membership in 1948.

Basically that plan calls for revision of teacher training to bring it up to the university level through the integration of Normal Schools with the university or affiliated college. A five-year course, with provision for Summer School sessions, would lead to a degree in education.

But the proposal would not prevent young people from teaching until they had completed the full five years. They would be available for work in classrooms after two.

This, federation spokesmen explain, makes no greater demand on potential teachers than does the present system which grants an interim teacher's certificate after one year of Normal School to students who have their senior matriculation—a grading equivalent to first year college.

Because of the present teacher shortage, several persons now preside over classrooms without that qualification. That is the result of an emergency which would be remedied if enough candidates succeeded in taking the official courses.

The teachers are interested in raising the standard of their profession. They believe that can be accomplished by encouraging more candidates to come to the profession with degrees or with credits leading up to degrees. In this respect they would favor university recognition of some summer school training now

However, it served its temporary purpose. "It allocates blame," says Mr. Reston, "and furnishes an alibi." The alibi apparently is needed to disguise the real fact that the United States itself decided not to intervene in Indo-China and was not obstructed by Britain.

The same sort of retrospective wisdom, as Mr. Reston remarks, is being used by the Democratic Party to blame the Republican Government for its miscalculations and mistakes during the last year. This jeering is easy for any opposition which can conveniently forget its own mistakes in office. On the other hand, the infuriated Republicans blame everything on the Roosevelt and Truman Governments, which are accused of "losing" China in the first place and precipitating all the later disasters of Asia.

"These speeches, press conferences and parliamentary debates," Mr. Reston explains, "provide an opportunity for all the Allies to call for agonizing reappraisals of all the other Allies, to condemn the neutrals and the communists and to perpetuate various American illusions—for example, the illusion that America can do anything, anywhere, and that it can command the destiny of continents, order the allegiance of Allies or halt revolution in Asia." All of which feeds the communist propaganda machine, but "Washington doesn't really mean to make the crisis worse, or embarrass the negotiators or hurt the Allies or annoy the neutrals, or help the communists. It just does what comes naturally in a free-wheeling political community."

Such a gaudy derelict dance is irritating, perhaps temporarily dangerous, but it has its uses. It compels the American people and others to face the actual facts at last after the congenial game of allocating blame and devising alibis is played out. It is being rapidly played out now. Last week-end's friendly conference at Washington was the best proof that British-American friendship cannot be destroyed by the pinpricks of harassed politicians in the brittle climate of an election year.

taken by teachers but not officially credited in work toward degrees.

The federation position has been viewed with sympathy by the department of education. The idea, the officials agree, is good. But, they ask, how can it be applied when it is difficult to find teachers with even minimum requirements to fill classrooms bulging with increased student bodies?

The teachers recognize the difficulty. They want more suitable candidates to fill the gaps. Suitable candidates can be acquired only if the profession is made more attractive. It can be made more attractive only through raising standards, and standards, they believe, will be enhanced only if entry into teaching is more selective.

Should their plan become operative, costs would almost inevitably rise. The student who pays out a great deal of money for the educational equipment required to be a first-class teacher reasonably wants a first-class salary.

Members of the federation take the position the public will understand that point. They are optimistic enough to believe, furthermore, that an understanding public will be prepared to pay in the same way that it puts up more money for quality merchandise.

The alternative seems obvious. If teaching does not become attractive, its ranks will be less inclined to draw the better type of candidate. Because schools are bulging with greater numbers of students than ever before, more teachers are needed. The federation, in effect, asks whether British Columbia is prepared to take whatever it can get, no matter how low the standard, or is prepared to make the profession appealing to the best possible candidates and thereby strengthen the magnet for better minds.

That is one of the problems with which Dr. Johnson will have to deal.

Small Comment on Racism

A SHORT NEWS ITEM FROM Ottawa carries its own commentary on Canada's attitude to residents of different racial origins.

In the national capital, according to the report, an adult has been sentenced to 10 days in jail for slapping a 12-year-old boy. That, without elaboration, seems a stiff penalty for a minor offense.

It becomes more understandable with a brief outline of the circumstances. The adult slapped a child of Chinese origin who was acting as a member of a school traffic patrol. While he administered the blows, the adult commented that Chinese "were not needed to tell white children what to do."

The magistrate imposed the jail term with the remark: "This is not a case for a fine."

It is not a legal crime in Canada to hold racial prejudices. But when those prejudices express themselves in breaches of the law, the law, at least in the Ottawa magistrate's court, appears to have an effective way of dealing with them.

LOOSE ENDS

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

A Man of His Own Time

ONE of the finest gentlemen ever produced by the curious civilization of Vancouver Island died here this week. The late Harry Pooley was not only the chief citizen of Esquimalt, a great public servant, a sportsman and a friend of everybody; he was one of the few surviving symbols of another and, I think, better age.

His world, and the world of all his contemporaries everywhere, collapsed, of course, in August, 1914, though his collapse was not noted for a long time afterwards. It was, by our current standards, a very simple, safe and pleasant world—and Mr. Pooley fitted comfortably into it. The brave new world promised by two great wars did not suit him well, I imagine, but he continued to live his own life and think his own thoughts until the end. The inner stuff of such pioneers was unshakable. And it was honest, wholesome and kind—qualities not particularly notable in the brave new world.

ANYWAY, our local politics in Mr. Pooley's time reflected, as they always do, the society which they undertook to govern. They governed with vigorous, clamorous and often horrendous debate, because in those simpler times every man had very clear ideas of public policy, few secret misgivings about anything and a sublime faith in the future of this country and of mankind.

In that faith our politicians were liberal, by historic definition, though Mr. Pooley called himself a true-blue Tory and never wavered (as many of his latter-day friends have wavered) in loyalty to his old party.

THE cardinal fact of current politics in Canada, as elsewhere, is not some dispute on policy, but a devastating decline in belief, a sudden and desperate uncertainty about fundamentals, a terrible doubt which mountebanks and chisellers are constantly exploiting. Mr. Pooley could never stoop to such methods, he left politics after long and unappreciated service, and devoted his last years to something more reliable—the earth and wilderness of his native Island. He was not a clever but he was a wise man, above all, an honest and kindly man, who fought hard and never made an enemy.

It was my privilege to know him when he was a large figure on the British Columbia scene and far younger than I am now. The fact that a club reporter was working for a newspaper always opposed to him in politics made no difference to Mr. Pooley. He treated everyone alike and, indeed, was closer in friendship to such Liberals as John Oliver than many of that Premier's colleagues.

YET the battle of public debate rang louder in those days than now because each side knew, or thought it knew, exactly where it stood.

I recall, for instance, the occasion when Mr. Pooley, single-handed, as opposition leader, held the legislature all night and until six o'clock next morning in attacking the Oliver Government's rather peculiar building contracts at the University of British Columbia. It seemed important then, it had the province in ferocious turmoil and now the whole affair is forgotten.

And how many Victorians today remember the Carlow-Gauthier scandal, a nasty little matter of liquor campaign funds, and Mr. Pooley bearding the wrath of a Royal Commission all alone? Or Mr. Pattullo—another survivor of the age of innocence—locked in mortal combat, as leader of the opposition, with Attorney-General Pooley, who was the sword and buckler of the ill-fated Tominie Government?

ALL gone with the wind. Yet those were great days, when the world was not yet smart enough to aim an atomic gun at its own head. If the old issues are forgotten and their makers fast dying, we should never forget that those men also made Victoria, the Island and British Columbia. If we enjoy a pretty opulent life today, by all past measurement, we owe it largely to them.

The first crop of British Columbia politicians—De Cosmos, Robson, Higgins, Drake and the others—brought Canada into Confederation and completed the doubtful project of a transcontinental state. The second crop—the McBrides, Bowers, Brewsters and Olivers—gave us stable government. Their work, though little noted anymore, was well and truly done and we are its beneficiaries. Not the least of those workers was Mr. Pooley, who possessed his own unique genius—a genius of honesty, candor and friendship, very precious and somewhat rare attributes in public life at any time.

I PREFER to remember him, however, as the robust companion of the woods, the fishing streams and the Cariboo range and so he will be remembered by closer intimates. They have lost not only a friend but a large and irreplaceable chunk of a vanished youth, a remnant of that lost world when the sun was rising, the forest was green and men never doubted the morrow. In this age of universal doubt it will be a wrenching pain for many men hereabouts to say farewell to Harry Pooley but it was good to have known him. He left us all with a little spark of his faith, his humor and his shining honor.

STRIKE AND TAX REBATE

I feel I must write you to you to say how pleased I am at the city workers being on strike. I note your newspaper stated Thursday that the city has saved $21,000 already and if this strike can be prolonged three more weeks they will have saved a little over $80,000. On enquiry I find that one mill is the equivalent of about $40,000 so that we poor, heavily-burdened taxpayers can have a rebate on this year's taxes equal to two mills—truly a blessing in disguise this strike.

PIPELINE AND POLITICS

Long years have passed since Jean-Jacques Rousseau wrote the succinct phrase, "Go to the roots and everything is connected with politics." That would seem to be the obstacle that has again thrust itself across the path of the Gas and Railway project being debated in British Columbia and the Eastern United States.

The way economies have become so centralized, in the name of the state in this our 20th century—through the stress and strain of perpetual warfare—can leave no doubt as to the ultimate objective. The mere fact that the giant combines of the United States of America have the power, and voice, to check, delay, or obstruct the program of any other country in their endeavor to promote their welfare is in itself significant.

The suggestion that the aforesaid combines deal through the Federal government of Canada is also of itself a heavily-loaded idea, because it is far past the time for further centralization and state control of many things pertaining to the welfare of the "little" people if they are not to become the abject slaves of high finance through taxation invoked through puppet government.

Surely the various branches of government have the machinery with which to invite, unnumbered business interests, both here and in the Commonwealth, to open up in the interior of British Columbia and thus provide the purchasers for the gas without this sickening anxiety to promote the welfare of a people already overly prosperous.

We have long been witness to the centralized gathering of economic satellites in White Russia, from whom the financial interests of the country gather tribute. Surely the peoples of the so-called "free" world are not to be both blinded and smothered by the smoke screen which is being labelled "Communism" in order to nourish the ravenous in their midst, who appear to have forgotten the golden rule and would themselves thus bind all the "little" peoples of their own countries to the wheel that gathers the tribute by way of and through overbearing taxation.

Hidden taxes, subsidizing, emergency powers, orders-in-council, have all helped to lower the roof over the heads of those who are not regimented or favoured under the cloak of the now popular "bureaucratic" hierarchy.

The Night Before Munich?

BY JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP, From Washington

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER and Winston Churchill met last weekend in circumstances recalling the eve of Munich. The personalities are certainly different, but the essence of the situation is much the same. A loss of will among the free nations has opened the way to a smashing triumph for a totalitarian aggressor. And this triumph will lead on to other triumphs, unless a firm stand can be agreed upon.

The scene of the coming triumphs of the totalitarians is of course Indo-China. The new French Premier, Pierre Mendes-France, went to Bern to negotiate with Chinese Foreign Minister Chou En-lai, in the exact condition of a man starting a difficult bridge hand without a single trump to his hand.

The military-political position in Indo-China has gravely deteriorated. The French Parliament has indicated that it wants the Indo-Chinese war ended at all cost. The Eisenhower administration, after much bold talk, has decided against trying to save Indo-China by American intervention, which the French government has not asked for in any case.

For all these reasons, Chou En-lai obviously has all the strong cards while Mendes-France has none. Despite this grim fact, the French government, the British Foreign Office, and even the American State Department are cherishing the happy thought that Chou En-lai will amiably refrain from taking all the tricks on the table.

REASONABLE MOOD

The Communist mood is said to be "reasonable." It is hoped the Communists will approve some form of partition of Indo-China which can be presented as an "honorable settlement." This hope seems to have been born of Foreign Minister Anthony Eden's talks at Geneva with Chou En-lai and Vyacheslav Molotov. The chances are at least even that these talks were another clever dodge, to encourage the free nations' loss of will.

Plainly, it is far more likely that Chou En-lai will demand and insist upon what will amount to complete French surrender. The surrender may well be dressed up a little, as the Munich settlement was dressed up.

Maybe parts of Indo-China will not pass immediately under Communist control. In the same fashion, part of Czechoslovakia briefly retained a ghostly independence after the Munich meeting. But in the long run it seems pretty sure that the practical result will be the same.

The consequences of a complete Communist triumph in Indo-China have already been clearly forecast by the entire leadership of the Eisenhower administration. Until two or three weeks ago, they were all saying that the loss of all Asia would probably result from the kind of disaster that is now in store in Indo-China. To be sure, the President, the Vice-President and Secretary of State Dulles are hurriedly explaining that their own earlier forecasts were far too gloomy.

Yet the hard facts on which those forecasts were based have not changed a particle. Perhaps this administration's leadership went collectively off its rocker, in the earlier period when they were trying to nerve themselves and the country to prevent disaster in Indo-China. It is much more probable that they were talking sense, and that the danger to Asia is just as great as they formerly said.

If the fate of Asia is indeed at stake, then it is no exaggeration to say that a sort of super-Munich is currently being prepared. To make matters more unattractive, there is every sign of the same sort of backbiting and unreality that were so prominent in the Munich period.

DIPLOMATIC TERMS

Secretary of State Dulles has in effect charged the British government with repudiating its agreements and with desiring from the start to surrender Indo-China to the Communists. Foreign Secretary Eden has now replied in diplomatic but understandable terms, that the U.S. government was always bluffing about Indo-China, and that Secretary Dulles' story about repudiated agreements is not true.

By the same token, the American government is sternly blaming the French for not asking us to come to their rescue; and the French government is angrily replying that we were never really ready to come to their rescue anyway.

On top of all this, the State Department has now raised the politically popular banner of "anti-colonialism." The new line seems to be that we can maintain the health and vigor of the Western alliance, while publicly attacking our chief allies for the colonial enterprises which they regard as their most vital interests.

Perhaps loud talk about anti-colonialism will help to glue together some sort of Asian system of mutual defense. But no one has explained how we are to avoid paying the price for this loud talk in other regions of the world outside of Asia.

The main price will be a heavy further strain on the Western Alliance. And the alliance of the West is already strained almost to the breaking point.

Tin Pan Alley Steals the Words

BY POLYCARP, in the United Church Observer

DID YOU KNOW that Tin Pan Alley is full of theologians? I mean that the people who write popular songs nowadays have adopted nearly all the phraseology of Christian theology in writing the words to their songs. It is not that they are writing hymns, certainly, and they aren't even putting in prayers for Christianity, but they have taken over our words, from "love" all the way down the line to "sin."

What they have done to the meanings of the words they have borrowed is pretty terrible.

As the Christian theologians stopped talking about Heaven, Paradise and Hell, the Tin Pan Alley theologians took them over. However, close listening will disclose that this state of bliss and grace is achieved by having someone's "arms tightly around you. One gets the impression that the someone should be of the opposite sex. Conversely, Hell is that state of perdition when one's "sweetie" is absent.

There is no nonsense among Tin Pan Alley about this attractiveness between the sexes being terminated in the next life. Maybe Jesus had different ideas, but Tin Pan Alley theologians know that sex can bridge even death.

After hearing enough popular songs, one can appreciate the reasoning of this theological position: If the sex life of these singers isn't resurrected, there won't be enough of their souls left to be worth resurrecting.

And as for "love," Tin Pan Alley and Hollywood have really made over this word completely. The present meaning is almost the opposite of what Paul told the people of Corinth that "love" ought to mean.

We Christians had pretty well to give up using the word "charity" after it got so misused a century ago, and now we may have lost the word "love." Perhaps we had better start copyrighting the articles of our creed.

If we don't, I can see what Tin Pan Alley can do to our most precious words. "Forgiveness" is what your sweetheart does after you have been out with somebody else, "grace" is whatever made him or her do the foregoing, "atonement" is being back in your sweetheart's arms, "sacrifice" refers to the TV set which you will give up in order to be beside your loved one, and "eternal life" is what inevitably follows once you have married this person.

On second thought, perhaps we have no right to copyright these words. If we aren't laying claim to them by making them live with Christian meaning, then we cannot complain if other people use them for less worthy purposes.

Remember the hint that the Bible gives us about what the last days will be like: people will continue to use the words of religion, but deny in their lives the power of the words.

Hang on, brethren, the time must be getting short.

The Square-Backed Chair---

THEY bought the sturdy, square-backed little chair at an auction sale in Alberta in 1931. The upholstery was worn, and the wooden arms were scratched, but they saw at once that the lines and craftsmanship were good. They were looking, really, for a sickle bar, but for once the wife got her way, and they left the sale carrying the little chair.

When they brought it home to the larger, elder child, aged four, claimed it for his own. He put it by the window in his room, the south window that looked towards the big Balm of Gilead tree and the weather-beaten barn.

When he grew too big to squeeze into it, the chair descended to a younger sister. She still could use it when they moved down to the coast and bought the farm that bordered on the river.

That's where I saw it first, in the back kitchen, beneath the row of pegs that held the mackinaws and slickers. It stood there from habit because, by that time, neither of the children could use it any longer for sitting on while they tugged at rubbers and farm boots.

And then, one Christmas, it was given to a young wife who lived near a logging town. It moved up in the world then, and became a living room chair. For she had the broken arm mended, the stuffing renewed and the covering replaced.

Ruth

There was a long shutdown in the woods that snowy winter, and money was scarce; so the covering wasn't a grand, show-off fabric, but a basic kind, the color of sacking. The wife contrived a slip-on cover that hid the dull material and made the chair attractive, although she only used a leftover piece of cotton goods with a spriggy pattern of tiny knots of blue flowers and bright young leaves on a white ground.

The little chair in its fresh new garb held a special place of the corner that held the low shelves of children's picture books. The three children in the family often sat there when they were reading on winter evenings or rainy afternoons.

Even when they were too big to use it, the chair remained in the living room for tiny guests when they came to visit. The chair appeared in snapshots of the children and was thus permanently recorded as part of their childhood years.

But now the chair has gone to another family. Those of us who've known it for more than 20 years felt that it should be in constant use, and not kept as a sentimental ornament. So it has gone to a little girl who is the daughter of the boy who owned the chair on the farm in Alberta. She lives in a logging camp and her home is perched on a steep hillside overlooking a lake.

The little chair won't hear the sounds of farm life any more, but the roar of logging trucks and the tramp of caulked boots.

Where it will go next, no one can say. But I hope it will be to country children, brought up in the simple freedom of farm and woods.

HELICOPTERS MAY LINK PRINCE RUPERT, KITIMAT

VANCOUVER (CP)—The first scheduled helicopter passenger service in Canada is planned for three communities on the north British Columbia coast, it was announced here Saturday.

Okanagan Helicopters Ltd. of Vancouver has submitted plans to the air transport board for serving Prince Rupert, Terrace and the aluminum centre of Kitimat. All three are about 500 miles north of Vancouver.

Social Welfare Important To World Peace—Pearson

TORONTO (CP)—There is an awareness today as never before in the world's history of the importance of international effort in the economic, social, health and cultural fields, External Affairs Minister Pearson said Sunday night.

In a prepared speech at the opening of the international conference of social work, he said this is the means of achieving the political goals and objectives which people of the world have established for themselves.

The international community, through the United Nations, has recognized that in large areas of the world there is a serious lag in social, health, educational and economic development, Mr. Pearson said.

"This stands as a threat to the well-being of the entire world community and cannot be overtaken without some form of international assistance to supplement the maximum effort which can be made by individual nations."

Responsible social welfare programs, he said, were never designed to supplant the effort which must be put forth by the individual, his family and the immediate community. These principles hold true on an international scale, and without self-help, international co-operation through the United Nations and other bodies would fail.

Royal Yacht Third In Toronto Regatta

TORONTO (CP)—Bluebottle, the dragon-class royal yacht, suffered her third consecutive defeat Saturday in the Royal Canadian Yacht Club's open regatta.

The yacht, owned by Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, finished third over the Lake Ontario course of nearly five miles. The 12-yacht race was won by Okolona, owned by Dr. Davidson Black and Dr. Keith MacDonald.

Stormy, which defeated Bluebottle in the first two races here, finished second.

Sir Winston Spikes Retirement Rumors

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill's constituents have assurances today that he has no intention of retiring before the next general election.

This would normally mean 1956 although an election might be called before then.

John Harvey, acting chairman of the Conservatives in the Woodford district that Churchill represents in Parliament, spiked retirement rumors at a political garden party Saturday.

Lady Churchill, who has been pressing her 79-year-old husband to step down, was present and heard Harvey declare:

"Sir Winston, subject only to the natural limitation of health and strength, will be representing your interests in Parliament, at least until the time of the general election."

There has been speculation that Churchill may turn over

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

The Moody Husband

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

One of the hardest things thousands of women have to do almost every evening is to cheer up a moody, dour, silent or somewhat melancholy husband. Almost every day he comes home from the office saying, "If our competitors cut in just a little more we will be in the poor house," or, "I have felt awful all day; I think I must have a cancer of the stomach, or heart trouble; or the beginning of Bright's disease."

After years of listening to this sort of talk the wife is not much frightened, and perhaps no longer interested. Some women eventually save themselves by letting the man's complaints go in one ear and out the other. The more kindly wives do what they can to cheer the man up, but here is the important point. If they should say, "Yes, dear, you look pretty bad tonight. I don't think you have been well lately; you had better see the doctor tomorrow," the man would become greatly alarmed and perhaps so panicky that he would take to his bed. He would think that if his usually cheerful and optimistic wife had at last taken his complaints seriously, he must be in a bad way.

On the other hand, if the wife in a merry mood were to say, "Oh no, there is nothing the matter with you, you know you have always been this way; you have always been scared to death about your business and your health; come on now and cheer up, and cut out this gloominess," the man would be deeply offended; he would feel that his wife did not love him, that she was not sympathetic, and that she did not care whether he died or not!

For this reason at 6 o'clock many a wife dreads the sound of her husband's car in the driveway, or his key in the front door. She knows that soon she will have to be walking a tight rope between being too sympathetic and too lightly encouraging. Many a time I have said to a moody hypochondriac who was always sure he was coming down with some awful disease, "Why are you trying every day to make just a psychiatric nurse out of that lovely wife of yours? Why don't you keep her as a sweetheart and a pet? She cannot keep taking your constant complaining every night without eventually losing her respect for you and her love for you."

FRIEDREICH'S ATAXIA

A few unfortunate people ask me what on earth can be done for Friedrich's ataxia. This is a horrible disease. Near my old home in San Francisco there was a family of three brothers who had this trouble. It was a sad sight to see the three of them reeling down the street much like men who had been drinking heavily.

Usually such men carry a card telling the police not to pick them up. The disease is definitely inherited, and it runs in a few families. It is due to a destruction of some of the nerve tracts, and hence there is no logical treatment for it. If I had it my one conviction would be that I must not have children; I must not pass on my curse to innocent persons who would then have to suffer all their days.

Unfortunately, there are many diseases of this type which run in families. My old friend, Dr. William Allan, used to point out that in his state of North Carolina there were so many children born with a hereditary tendency to paralysis of many of their muscles that the cost to the state of taking care of them all their days was running into millions of dollars. One would think that persons with good sense and kindness in their hearts would never have risked bringing into the world a half dozen children when they could be sure that perhaps half of them would have such an awful disease.

Every so often in the office I meet some fine man or woman who has remained unmarried or childless, and who tells me that he or she preferred this to the terrible risk of bringing into the world children, some of whom would have to be blind, deaf, feeble-minded, paralyzed or so ataxic that they could hardly walk. Always I feel for these people great sympathy and great respect. What is sad, often, is that persons in an affected family who appear to have escaped the curse are carriers of it, and hence able to pass it on to any children they may have.

ROSACEA

Many middle-aged persons are much distressed because of a chronic inflammation of the skin over the nose and cheeks. Skin specialists tell us that such patients have an instability of the nerves which control the calibre of the small arteries of their skin, and they also tend to have a greasy skin. The lesions may spread from the nose out onto the cheeks, up to the forehead and down to the chin.

Doctors do not know as much as they would like to know about the cause of the trouble. Sometimes it will appear suddenly in the case of a woman who has been much upset nervously over something. At times help may be obtained by avoiding certain foods which tend to make the nose redder.

Often a skin specialist can help with ointments and perhaps treatment with X-rays.

Dr. Alvarez regrets he hasn't the time in which to read or answer requests for information.

JBAA Washed Out Of B.E.G. Berth

James Bay Athletic Association's eight-man rowing crew Saturday failed in its bid for a berth at the British Empire Games rowing trials at St. Catharines on July 10.

Rowing against University of British Columbia and the Vancouver Rowing Club at Coal Harbor in Vancouver, James Bay placed second about four lengths back of UBC. Vancouver trailed the locals by 10 lengths.

James Bay and UBC were battling strongly for first position midway in the 2,000-metres race when a pleasure craft cut in front of the local crew and the wake brought the Victoria rowing craft to a standstill.

The locals resumed rowing but were unable to catch UBC. James Bay's next competition will be the B.C. championship in Vancouver July 10.

Temperatures will be a little higher in most areas Tuesday but still will be much below the average afternoon temperature for this time of year.

'HE'S A DOLL, NOT A KEWPIE'

Sir Winston Charms Staff at White House

WASHINGTON (UP)—Backstairs at the White House: Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill may be 79 years old and walking a bit more slowly, but he has lost none of his charm.

Cigar, zippered boots and a rhetorical gift for fashioning bon mots, Sir Winston captured the top, White House staff members when they met him in the President's office last Friday.

The upper echelon of Eisenhower advisers stood around the President's desk and listened like bobby-soxers before a Perry Como as the prime minister rumbled in his best style and flipped off one Churchillian phrase after another.

"What did he say?" one staff member asked.

"I don't know," he answered, "but it was superb."

Two of the more beautiful members of the White House staff peered at the Prime Minister through a door to the President's office.

"He's a doll," said one.

"No, he isn't," said the other. "He's a kewpie."

Because Mr. Eisenhower plainly doesn't go to the airport to meet anybody, he waited on the north portico of the White House for Sir Winston.

Meantime, the President's top secret service driver, Richard Flohr, took a custom-built convertible to the air strip to pick up the distinguished visitor.

Vice-President Richard M. Nixon, chief of the airport welcome party, was in the back seat.

A voluble photographer spotted Flohr as the car rolled onto the concrete apron of the military air transport service and shouted to Flohr, "Attaboy, Dick."

Whereupon, the Vice-President rose from his seat and waved enthusiastically.

The bedroom of the rose suite where Sir Winston lived over the week-end has one large double bed. This may have annoyed the Prime Minister. He likes to have two beds in his room, so that if the covers get tidily rumpled during the night he can shift to another, unwrinkled slumber couch.

The day before Churchill arrived at the White House someone was unduly eager or maybe it was an electrical short circuit—but at any rate, one of the air raid horns which have the ear-splitting delicacy of an angry explosion went off. Police in the lobby grabbed special

JORDAN CLAIMS FOUR KILLED BY ISRAELI

JERUSALEM (AP)—A Jordan broadcast heard here today said a "great force" of Israeli soldiers armed with mortars crossed the Israeli-Jordan border near Kalkilyeh Sunday night and attacked an Arab legion base. It said four legionnaires were killed and several injured.

An Israeli army spokesman admitted the crossing but said "only a 'small' Israeli unit was involved. He said the unit strayed across the border by mistake and one Israeli soldier is missing.

Lake Michigan Giant Wave Took 7 Lives

CHICAGO (AP)—Police and coast guard officials believed today the death toll of Saturday's tidal wave on Lake Michigan would reach seven.

Bodies of four fishermen who were swept from a pier and two rock jetties into the lake have been recovered. Three fishermen are missing and divers are seeking their bodies at Montrose harbor.

The huge wave, estimated by witnesses at from five to 20 feet high, hit the Lake Michigan shore for a stretch of about 25 miles.

The freak wave was described as a seiche by the weather bureau. It was believed to have been caused by a wind squall, followed by a sudden calm.

The river rose another inch in the last 24 hours. It is now 18 feet 8 inches, which is two inches above the minimum flood level.

Last week, the water resources branch predicted a further rise of five feet in the water level at Brandon.

Bottles Wielded, Boots Fly in Pitched Post-Game Soccer Brawl

BERN, Switzerland (AP)—The organizing committee of the world soccer championships severely censured both Hungary and Brazil today for "unsportsmanlike conduct" in their quarter-final match Sunday.

Hungary won 4-2 after one of the worst-tempered international games in football history. Referee Arthur Ellis, ordered two Brazilians and one Hungarian off the field. Several players, officials and policemen were hurt in a pitched post-game battle fought in the dressing rooms with broken bottles and studded football boots.

The organizing committee shelved action on the dressing room battle till Wednesday, to await reports from police and stadium officials on the scene.

But an emergency meeting of the committee this morning passed a resolution of severe censure on the two teams, and ordered the two associations to take immediate action to punish one Hungarian and three Brazilian players guilty of misconduct on the field.

The associations were ordered to report to the committee at once what punishment they were imposing on the four players.

The players to be punished were Newton Santos, Humberto Barbosa and Mauro Raquel, according to Ellis, struck a vicious blow at Hungary's Zoltan Czibor as the players were leaving the field.

A report by Ellis was the basis of this morning's action by the committee. "Eyewitnesses said that Mauro Raquel walked up to Czibor and held out his right hand in an apparent move to make friends after the brawl-like game. With Czibor's right hand gripped firmly in his, giant Mauro Raquel lashed out with his left and landed a violent blow on the Hungarian's jaw—in full sight of the spectators leaving the stands.

Minutes later a fight broke out between players of both teams in the dressing rooms. Bottles, boots and broken glass were wielded by the angered players and officials before police managed to break up the battle.

The officials said they would leave the punishment entirely up to the two associations. Hungarian team officials said Bozskai would play against Uruguay.

Hungarian and Brazilian officials waited an hour in an anti-room of the Schweizerhof Hotel here to be called into the inquiry. They sat back to back, never looking at each other.

The game ended with only 19 men on the field—and most of them limping. Referee Arthur Ellis of England had sent off Hungary's Bozskai and Brazil's Newton Santos and Humberto Barbosa for fighting.

As the Brazilians walked off the field, Hungarian captain Ferenc Puskas slashed one of them with a bottle.

The Brazilian—Joao Rap-tiasti Carlos Pinheiro—was carried off by teammates with a three-inch gash in his head.

Hungarian players surrounded Puskas and took him to the dressing room. There the fighting broke out again—this time with all the players and officials of each team joining in.

The maddened players fought with soccer boots, bottles, glass from shattered partitions everything they could put their hands to.

At least two policemen were injured in breaking up the battle.

Gastav Sebes, vice-president of the Hungarian national sports committee, went out of the fight with a cut on his face.

Hundreds of Swiss police cordoned the locker rooms to keep out fans.

Ellis, a Yorkshire textile worker regarded as one of Britain's top referees, came off the field amid a guard of 20 baton-carrying police.

Puskas, one of the world's most brilliant soccer stars, is a major in the Hungarian Army. He watched Sunday's match from the sidelines. He was injured in a game with Germany last week.

After the battle the Brazilians ran to their bus by the locker room entrance with tears streaming down their cheeks.

Only their coach, Zee Moreira, would say anything.

"The Hungarians stole the match," he barked.

The Hungarians left by a separate entrance. Puskas was with them—carrying a bouquet.

In the other game Sunday, played at Geneva, Germany scored a goal in each half to defeat Yugoslavia 2-0. Semi-final matches will be played Wednesday—Hungary vs. Uruguay in Lausanne and Austria vs. Germany in Basle.

City Softball League Race Remains Tight

Arrows 5, Fletcher 3

Things are just as crowded as ever in the Senior A Men's Softball League but Arrow Furniture gave themselves a little more elbow room over the week-end.

Arrows bounced Cec Fletcher, 5-3 at Central Park Sunday to take a slim two-point league lead while at Duncan, Chinese Students moved into a second-place tie with Fletcher's, each two points behind Arrows, with a 3-1 win over Mayo-Lumber.

Rud Ross, with a little late relief help from big John Furmston, pitched the important victory for Arrows. Ross gave up single runs in the second and fourth innings, both unearned, but was lifted in favor of Furmston in the eighth after Fletcher's scored one run and had the tying runs on base. Furmston put out the fire by making Vern Evans force one man and getting Jimmy Morrison on an outfield fly.

Arrows got a run, starter Ken Gunter in the third, picked up two more off reliever Norm Martin in the sixth and scored their winning runs with a two-run cluster in the seventh.

WONG IN FORM

Henry Wong was the big man at Duncan as he pitched a neat, four-hitter for Students.

Wong gave up his lone run in the seventh on a walk, wild pitch, passed ball and a sacrifice fly.

Meanwhile, Students struck for all their runs in the sixth inning. Dave Lowe opened with a single and rode home on a long home run by Bernie Sam. Jimmy John immediately followed with a triple and scored on Jimmy Chan's single.

Ken Bradley was the losing pitcher.

Arrows meet United Services at Central Park tonight at 6:45.

SPLIT WITH PARKSVILLE

Farmers Near Baseball Title

Farmers 13, 7; Parksville 1, 14

Powerful Farmer Construction are now within one game of capturing the Vancouver Island Senior Amateur Baseball League championship.

Playing in a 12-game island league with Parksville Loggers, Farmers posted their sixth league victory Sunday afternoon at Parksville by drubbing Loggers, 13-1. Parksville won the night game 14-7, as they racked two Farmers' pitchers for a total of 17 base hits.

Paul Beck and Don Donahue shared mound duties the first game, while starter Bill Garner was chased in favor of Lowell Hodges in the first inning of the second contest after giving up four hits and six runs. Norm Forbes saw his first action this season with Farmers in the outfield.

Bar Charlie Boyd was the hitting star of the first game, as he clubbed two home runs, and one single for Farmers. Bernie Anderson and Donahue each added one homer, while Ron Karadimis had two singles and Pete Ash a double and single.

Parksville's six hits were all singles.

Canadian Field Records Broken

TORONTO (CP)—Two Canadian field records fell at the Canadian open track and field championships here during the week-end.

Roy Pella, 23, of Sudbury, Ont., a football prospect and graduate of the University of Michigan this spring, broke the Canadian native discus record with a throw of 160 feet, nine inches Saturday. He passed the old mark of 3 1/2 feet.

In the he-man hammer throw, U.S. record holder Martin Eagles of Long Island, N.Y., cracked a 43-year-old Canadian open record with a heave of 190 feet, 11 inches, just 4 1/2 feet short of his American mark, and eight feet, seven inches better than the previous Canadian standard set in 1911 by M. J. McGrath of New York City.

Mack Denies Sale

Missed Birdie Putt Forces Golf Playoff

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP)—Tommy Bolt missed a nine-footer for a birdie on the final hole and ended in a tie with Earl Stewart of Dallas, Tex., in the 72-hole $15,000 Insurance City Open tournament. Each posted 271.

They'll play off for the $2,400 top money in an 18-hole golf test today.

Bolt, of Houston, Tex., helped tremendously by a spectacular 60 two days ago, opened Sunday's competition in front with a 54-hole total of 200. Five strokes up on Stewart, he wound up with a par 71, while Stewart carded a 66.

Bolt shot rounds of 71-60-69-71, while the 32-year-old Stewart, four years younger than his opponent, posted rounds of 68-68-69-66, and is favored to win because of his more consistent play.

Be it ever so humble, there will be no place like home for the Victoria Tyes when they return to Athletic Park tonight.

What with local strikes and teams dropping out of the league, it has been almost three weeks since the Tyes' last saw their home park but they will be back there tonight in company with Lewiston Broncos. And Tyes will be hoping that the double victory they scored over Wenatchee Chiefs Sunday, 3-1 and 6-3, will be indicative of a trend as the second half of the WIL split season starts July 7.

Also, Tyes will be hoping that Athletic Park isn't too humble tonight.

The strike of the city outside staff, which still hadn't been settled early this morning, will not prevent Tyes from playing. However, the grass may be a little long if the strike is not settled and there will be no hot water for showers. Should the strike be ended this afternoon, the grass will be cut and all the usual facilities will be restored to normal.

Attendance Spurt Necessary

Business manager Reg Patterson, hoping for a large attendance this week, said that the disrupted home schedule had cut attendance at Victoria games to only 16,000 so far this season. He said that 50,000 to 60,000 fans would have to attend in the second half to give the club an even financial break for the season.

It is likely that manager Don Pries will make one of two player changes this week. It is thought that probably two players will be released, but there has been no word of new players while the club was on the road.

Victoria fans will see first baseman Mel Stein for the first time tonight as he joined the club on the road. Also appearing for the first time will be pitcher John Tierney, sent down from Portland last week.

Pries got good mileage out of his pitchers in Wenatchee Sunday as Bob Drilling went the route in the first game, giving up nine hits. Tyes were also blessed with luck as all three of their runs were unearned.

Hal Flinn and Neil Sheridan, joined forces to win the second game. Flinn also tossed a nine-hitter and Sheridan clouted a two-run homer.

The double win gave Tyes the series, three games to one as Wenatchee took a 6-1 victory Saturday.

Emery Central Figure In Vic Vans' 1-0 Win

Dave Emery was the pitching and hitting star Sunday as Vic Van Storage blanked Hagels Chesterfield, 1-0, in a hard fought Victoria and District Amateur Baseball Association

Emery hurled a neat three-hit shutout, struck out 13, walked only one and drove in the only run of the game with a hard smash off pitcher Ricky Kelsall's leg in the second.

Kelsall also pitched steadily, giving up only three hits, whiffing 11 and walking four. In addition he hit a double, the only extra-base hit in the game.

In two juvenile exhibition games, Chemainus downed Hollywood, 16-8, and then whipped Saanich, 15-2, at Macdonald Park. Ormond Cave was the winning pitcher in the first game and Alf Carter took the second victory.

Wearry MP's End Record 139-Day Session; Throne Speech Stresses Defense Need

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's aims to deter aggression while striving for establishment of world peace were stressed Saturday as Parliament prorogued.

The speech from the throne, read by Mr. Justice Patrick Kerwin, deputy governor-general, noted that as the first session of the 22nd Parliament ended "political tension throughout the world is a grim reminder that the first concern of the government must be the maintenance of the necessary strength to deter aggression while we continue to strive for the establishment of peace in the world."

The session concluded after a modern record of 139 sitting days with a brief ceremony in the Senate chamber. Before reading the speech from the throne, royal assent was given by Mr. Justice Kerwin to 33 pieces of legislation including one giving effect to the government's 1954-55 spending program totalling about $4,500,000,000.

The session saw 81 bills passed, including 14 sponsored by private members. Another 378 divorce bills, dissolving marriage of Quebec and Newfoundland residents, were approved.

EXPECT FALL SESSION

Following delivery of the throne speech in both French and English, Mr. Justice Kerwin announced the government's choice of August 5 as the provisional date for reassembling Parliament. Extensions of the provisional date are usually made later by order-in-council.

Parliament is expected to meet again in November. International affairs and trade were given prominent mentions in the speech which also included a review of the legislation approved by Parliament.

JOHN NIAGARA Talks about:

Bills marked "PLEASE REMIT"

Most people have had a bill sometime, bearing the words, "Please remit by return mail." And many of us have not always been able to send payment by return mail. A large unplanned bill, or a lot of little ones, can often cause this to happen. Most people don't realize that all they need to clear away their debts is time, yes, time to spread the payments into future pay envelopes. A friendly loan gets you a lump sum of money, with which to pay your bills. You then have time to repay, with payments you can handle more easily. It's a simple way to get back on your feet. Friendly loans up to $1500 from Niagara are life-insured at no extra cost to you. Besides, on many friendly loans, the rates are lower. If you need money why don't you give yourself time to pay by arranging a Niagara loan. We'll be glad to see you... so just drop in.

Bonner Urges New Tax Plan For Education

Says Landowner Carries Burden

GANGES—Imposition of an income tax to finance education would be more fair than the present system of taxing land, George E. Bonner, Cobble Hill, said here at a meeting of Salt Spring Ratepayers' Association. "The time has gone by when the land should carry all the taxes," said Mr. Bonner, president of the Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association.

"The B.C. government receives approximately $46,000,000 from the federal government in lieu of income tax," Mr. Bonner continued. "The money for education should come out of these consolidated revenues as it does for all other departments, and all education should not be charged to the landowner," he said.

"If the consolidated revenue was not sufficient, then it would be fairer to impose an income tax," he said.

About 50 island residents attended the meeting. Guest speakers were Alex Smith, Oyster River, and Mrs. E. Christie, Fanny Bay. Chairman was Tom Fowler, president of the Salt Spring group.

Ratepayers Criticize Plan For Hospital

GANGES—Members of the Hospital (Gulf Islands) District Organizational Committee here, faced with awkward questions from the floor at a public meeting, maintained their stand that a new hospital is badly needed by the community.

J. F. de Macedo, Vesuvius Bay, said that according to the last set of plans drawn by architects, the tax rate to finance a new hospital would not exceed 2.5 mills.

Under questioning, however, he admitted that architects Whitaker and Wagg of Victoria were drawing new plans that would call for a separate building to be used as a nurses' residence.

DOCTOR APPROVES

Dr. T. Wilkie spoke briefly on the need, from a medical standpoint, for a larger and more modern hospital.

One questioner brought out the point that a government grant would be available to repair and rebuild the present hospital, then accused the committee and hospital board of deliberately keeping the fact from the public.

Chairman of the meeting was John Rhodes Sturdy, who explained the meeting had been called to bring the public up to date on hospital developments.

KIDNEY ACIDS Rob your Rest..

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—blame it on "nerves"—when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they fail and impurities stay in the system—disturbed rest often follows. If you don't rest well get and use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Ladysmith Ratepayers Support $448,000 By-Law for Schools

LADYSMITH—School board members say a quick start will be made on a new 10-room elementary school in the city, following ratification by ratepayers of the $448,000 school building program.

Ratepayers voted 69 per cent in favor of the program. Ballots counted Saturday showed 754 in favor and 332 against.

In addition to the new elementary school within the city, which will replace two old buildings, the program calls for extra rooms at Ladysmith High School, four new rooms at Saltair School, a teachers' residence at Thetis Island, renovation of Chemainus elementary school and funds for improvement to grounds.

It is expected the whole program will cover a five-year period. First work will be on the elementary school since it is considered the most pressing need.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

I heard a gripping adventure story the other day, which I really should pass along to the Outdoor Editor.

But it is such a wonderful story of courage and endurance, I am going to print it here, with sincere apologies for invading the Outdoor Editor's backyard.

Last winter was an especially severe one in Yalamalta Valley, a particularly rugged section of the northern interior of B.C. Even the wolves which roamed the sparsely wooded rimrock were gaunt and hungry. As for human beings—the only two in the whole valley were in desperately poor shape.

They were the two famed trappers and outdoorsmen, "Hardrock" Sam and "Bedrock" Bill.

These two men had known the rigors of many a Yalamalta Valley winter, but this year they had underestimated its severity. They had reached the danger point as their supplies began to run out long before the snow was off the ground.

In fact, they became so desperate they decided to tackle an unheard-of project—kill a bear hibernating in its den!

"The only thing to do," Sam said, "is climb right into his cave and bang him over the head with a club."

"Right," said Bill. "But we can't both crawl into that narrow opening. We'll cut the cave for it."

They cut the cave and Sam was elected to be the bear in his den.

The narrow opening to the bear's den dropped down almost vertically, and Sam with raw courage, crawled in head-first.

As Sam edged forward, the rank stench of bear became stronger and stronger, but he could see nothing. Finally, he could feel hot, stinking breath on his cheek—but still he could see nothing.

He fumbled a match from his pocket in shaking fingers, struck the match, and in its feeble glare saw the huge, slaving head of a giant grizzly.

The grizzly opened its mouth and snarled.

"Be careful of that match," the grizzly snarled. "Prevent forest fires."

The moral of this story is, even a bear knows when trouble's bruin.

B.C. CCL Unions Join Trade Mission to Russia

By ROY THORSEN

A Canadian Congress of Labor delegate from B.C. will be chosen to join eastern representatives on a mission to the U.S.S.R. to investigate the possibilities of Canada obtaining multi-million dollar Soviet orders for ships and other equipment.

Jack Cornthwaite, Victoria, business agent for Local 3, Machinists, Helpers and Fitters' Union (CCL), said today the decision to send a delegate from this province was made at an all-day conference Saturday in Vancouver of the Shipyard General Workers' Federation of B.C. He is vice-president of the federation.

The B.C. representative would join eight CCL delegates for the trip. Mr. Cornthwaite sponsored the move for B.C. participation and was supported by Victoria shipwrights.

"This is not a propaganda mission. We will be strictly after business," said Mr. Cornthwaite.

He said the delegates would investigate every angle of handling Soviet contracts, including how they would be paid for.

Delegates would report their findings to the unions, shipyard management would be informed and action taken to seek government approval to handle USSR trade.

"I do not see why we shouldn't be able to. The U.K. sent a trade mission to Russia earlier this year and returned with orders for 30 steel trawlers for the North Atlantic.

"And they want 30 more. That would be a contract of around $30,000,000. We need this trade. We can build anything from a rowboat to a battleship in our Canadian yards, and our technically skilled workmen are second to none in the world," said Mr. Cornthwaite.

"If we continue to have to rely on government relief work for our shipyards, shipbuilding will collapse in Canada," said the business agent of the machinists.

The mission will also investigate the Soviets' needs, said to be extensive, for machine tools and millions of ties for the Trans-Siberian Railway. Mr. Cornthwaite said H. R. MacMillan's companies were interested in the latter.

Mr. Cornthwaite said he would like to have seen this a joint labor-management mission, but that the present arrangement was better than nothing.

C. D. Howe, minister of trade and industry, in a letter to J. K. Bell, secretary of the national council of shipyard workers, replying to a query on Soviet trade, said that allied western governments had, by agreement, been denying Soviet orders on "strategic grounds."

However, Mr. Howe said, "I do not think there is any doubt that the Russians would be interested in placing orders with Canadian shipyards for any type of ship built in Canadian yards."

Liquor Vote Tuesday Saanich Polls Open at 8 a.m.

Residents of Saanich and Central Saanich will go to the polls Tuesday to vote on two liquor plebiscites which will decide whether the municipalities will be "wet or dry."

The plebiscites were requested from the Provincial Government by the two municipal councils in May. A third plebiscite will be held in Oak Bay on July 12.

The polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. It was announced by Mrs. T. L. Clarke, returning officer for the two municipalities.

Voters will vote on one ballot whether they are for or against four liquor outlets. These are: public houses (beer parlors); dining room license for beer, ale and wine with meals; dining lounge license (cabarets and clubs); and lounge licenses (cocktail bars).

MAJORITY NEEDED

Each proposal requires a 55 per cent majority to pass.

There was no indication today whether the vote would be heavy or light as there has been no campaigning for and against the liquor plebiscite in the two municipalities.

Requests for liquor licenses in the two municipalities have also been few. They have come mostly from hotel owners or restaurants dealing with the tourist trade.

POLLING STATIONS

Premier Won't Change Grievance Procedure

There were strong indications today of a complete breakdown in relations between the B.C. Government Employees' Association and Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

The premier held a lengthy meeting with Canadian Trades and Labor Congress vice-president R. K. Gervin this morning as the association made a final attempt to gain a hearing with the cabinet on job and wage grievances.

The meeting between the two was the second in three weeks.

BENNETT'S VIEW

No official statement was released by association officers following the conference, but Premier Bennett said later that: "The Civil Service Commission is set up to handle these things."

The differences between the premier and the association stem from the former's refusal to continue grievance hearings between the association and a cabinet sub-committee.

He said the meetings had not been held "because certain people in the association were playing politics."

The association executive will consider Mr. Gervin's findings and plan future policy at a meeting scheduled Friday.

"How did you get on the wharf?"

GO TO COURT

Mr. Woodhead said during the course of argument: "I'm prepared to go to court to argue the case, ... a bunch of real admirals running around here."

Mr. Woodhead said he had no intention of going through a picket line, as such, and said the whole affair developed because "I was overcome with the pugnacity of a city employee."

Also, "He (Hook) told me I was breaking the strike by dumping garbage," then ... "He practically dared me to dump it." In Mr. Woodhead's book, police were called "because I committed the crime of dumping garbage into the garbage scow."

HEALTH HAZARD

Garbage Mr. Woodhead dumped came from his restaurant. He said that to keep it around any longer would have created a health hazard. As he put it: "I don't see why an argument between the mayor and outside city workers should create a health hazard. We have a strike ... and the mayor goes off to sea."

Only people on the scene who exhibited no concern were the strikers themselves.

GREEKS SOAKED

Ahepa Holds Garden Rites Despite Rain

A heavy downpour of rain did not deter Rev. Daniel Zezas of St. George's Church, Vancouver, from conducting an open air service at Butchart Gardens Sunday for some 800 delegates attending the annual convention of the Anglo-Hellenic Educational Progressive Association here.

The Orthodox religious service went on as usual, completely soaking the priest and 25 members of a Greek choir composed of boys and girls. For a part of the ceremony, Rev. Mr. Zezas used an umbrella.

Hundreds of delegates, as well as many Victorians who attended the service, were also caught in the rain. Some left the service, but at least 400 members of the congregation remained until all religious rites had been performed.

The open air service brought to an end a three-day convention attended by Greeks from all parts of Canada and the United States.

The convention elected John Melonas, an inspector for the Spokane, Portland and Seattle Railway, as governor of District 22, at a meeting Saturday. He succeeds Thomas Sideres of Tacoma.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—Isn't St. Catharines, Ontario, called the "Garden City of Canada"? — L. N. T.

A.—Yes, though to what extent it is so known among the people of Canada it is impossible to state with certainty. The words, however, are merely an appellation and no part of the official name of the city as recognized by the Geographic Board of Canada. This was made plain in this column a few days ago, when the descriptive words "City of Gardens" as associated with the name Victoria were discussed. The Niagara Peninsula has long been known as among the most productive fruit-growing areas in Canada. St. Catharines, is one of the chief shipping and fruit-and vegetable-canning centres of that district. However, "Canada," a descriptive atlas published by the Department of Citizenship and Immigration at Ottawa, does not give further distinction to St. Catharines by adding the words "Garden City of Canada" to its name.

CD UNIT MANNED BY BUSINESSMEN'S CLUBS NEWEST PLAN TO BOOST CIVIL DEFENSE ENROLLMENTS HERE

35 of Victoria CD Staff Have Completed Special Courses

If the third world war broke out most observers believe the main attacks would be aerial bombing of cities. The development of A-bombs and H-bombs since the last war seem to make this obvious. Thus, while the navy, army and air forces would have the job of repelling attacks and counter-attacking an enemy, civilians in each city would be involved as never before in warfare. Now is Victoria prepared to meet such a contingency? In a series of articles Times Reporter Roy Thorsen has endeavored to answer this question. This is the third article.

By ROY THORSEN

Thirty-five persons have attended special courses away from Victoria on various aspects of civil defense to gain wider knowledge for local training purposes.

Five have attended Ottawa forums. Four instructors, two wardens and three welfare officials have also taken courses in the federal capital.

Three persons went to Camp Borden, Ont., to take ABC warfare general courses, two others going to the same military centre to be schooled in the medical end of ABC warfare.

Two persons have received radiation monitoring training at the University of British Columbia, seven others attended courses for welfare instruction and firefighting. Two men went to Toronto for fire training and one man to Seattle for traffic control strategy.

Two special classes to train instructors have been held in the 622 Cormorant Street CD headquarters and one at UBC in which assistance was given by the provincial instruction staff.

Public meetings have been held in many schools and church halls and talks given to PTAs, service clubs and many church and charitable organizations to acquaint people with the organization and what to do in an emergency.

Civil Defense director Leonard Hatcher is now seeking to form an auxiliary within the business men's clubs of Victoria.

TODAY'S GARDEN HINT

Fir Boughs, Stumps Cause Lawn Fairy Rings

To prevent Fairy Ring in a lawn, make sure no old fir tree stumps or limbs are buried anywhere in the lawn area.

Fairy Ring fungus develops during the decomposition of fir wood, and since it is such a common practice to dispose of stumps by covering them, it is little wonder many expensive lawns fall prey to this fungous disease. No control will be effective while the wood remains under the lawn.

Using top soil brought from woods where the fungus is prevalent is another source of infection; as also is soil in which small pieces of firwood are present.

Today's practice of mixing raw sawdust into the lawn area to lighten the soil, could well prove a poor policy in a few years.

When the woodstools appear in an infested lawn great care should be taken not to cut them with the lawnmower, nor break them off by walking over the area. Each woodstool should be carefully pulled up as soon as it appears, placed in a paper bag and burned in an enclosed fire. That is, unless you consider the woodstools a table delicacy.

Since most lawns are made from prepared mixtures of grass seeds we have the clue to why all grass within the ring is not killed.

The Fairy Ring fungus feeds on the roots of certain grasses such as Agrostis, the best known varieties of which are the Creeping Bent and Red Top grasses. These grasses are necessary for a good turf, and annual preventive treatment should be practiced on all lawns of which they form part of the seed mixture.

Lawns grown from mixtures of Fescues and the Blue Grasses are better able to withstand the fungus. This indicates that the selection of the seed mixture for lawns in an infested area can do much to control the disease.

to enable those already trained to take part in exercises and specialized training. So far the latter has covered advanced first aid, rescue for wardens, stretcher-bearing, registration, ambulance driving, sector leaders' and wardens' duties.

Exercises have been held for ambulance, rescue, stretcher bearers, wardens and auxiliary police, sometimes apart and on occasions jointly.

"We don't have to worry about training for a great many of the personnel. They already know the work they will be called on to do on joining us," said Mr. Hatcher.

CD equipment in his hands includes a rescue truck complete with equipment for that work, government-supplied first aid kits, provision made for an air service to handle CD needs (like bringing in blood supplies, etc.) and a fire pump to augment existing civilian equipment.

At the present time over 150 modern two-way radios can be made available to civil defense within a few hours to help in maintaining communications.

"We have about $30,000 worth of radio equipment right now. The complete radio plan for our civil defense is being studied in Ottawa," the director said.

His latest plan to build up first aid personnel strength will be to contact all those who have qualified in St. John Ambulance Brigade courses during the last few years and seek to enroll them in CD. A good return is expected. St. John and the Red Cross have been of invaluable help in the building of the organization.

Circumstances Dictate Presents to Boy Friend

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

What to give a boy for a present is a question that faces many girls, as is true of the girl who wrote:

Hurlock

(Q) "I have already given my boy friend a shirt and tie, a traveling shaving kit, a picture, and an identification bracelet. He has a watch. What would you suggest that I buy him? I will spend anywhere from $1 to $15 for his present."

(A) A present to anyone should be an individual matter. Of course there are certain conventional gifts that men always receive from girls, such as ties and books, but a present should be more individualized than that if possible.

In selecting a present for a man, there are several things a girl should keep in mind. First, how well does she know him? If she knows him very well and there is an understanding that they will be married, her gift would be entirely different from what it would be if they were merely good friends.

The second thing to keep in mind is the man's personal interests. If, for example, your friend has little interest in reading, it would be foolish to give him a gift of books. However, if he likes to read, then he would enjoy a book or books relating to subjects he is especially interested in, whether they be travel, world history, or art. Surely you must know what your friend's special interests are and could be guided by this knowledge.

The third and perhaps most important consideration is not to spend too much money for it. This always embarrasses a man, and may put him in a position where he feels that he should spend more for a gift for you than he can afford or than he wants to spend.

WHY GROW OLD?

Beat Summer Heat These Simple Ways

Of course the best way to beat summer heat is to sit in an air-conditioned room or lie in a tub of cold water or in a hammock while someone fans you.

But many folks do not have air conditioning, cannot lie in a tub of cold water much of the time and have no one to fan them. So here are some suggestions which are practical and will make your summer much more comfortable if you will use them. Cut them out and put them safely away until a heat wave comes.

1. Cut out as much hecticness and hurry as possible. These are heating. Temperatures flare in hot weather. Keep yours cool and you will be, too.

2. I already have given you suggestions about eating to beat the heat. High-calorie and energy foods are heating.

3. Swim whenever you can. This cools you off for hours. If you cannot do that, loaf in a cool shower or a bubble bath.

4. Although it may not seem so at the time, exercise cools the body. A good workout and the resulting speed-up in perspiration will make you feel cooler for a long time afterward. You have to try this to believe it. Follow your exercise period with a warm bath and then a cool shower. You will feel like a new woman.

5. Wear comfortable clothes. Take advantage of the fad for play clothes, shorts and pedalpushers, and sundresses and halters.

6. Do your errands early in the morning whenever possible and learn a lesson from the Mexicans. Pull the blinds, turn on the fan and take a noonday siesta.

If you would like to have a short exercise routine to use this summer, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 19, "Essential Daily Routine for Beauty and Health." Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Married at St. Luke's Church Couple to Live in Victoria

After a honeymoon spent traveling in the United States, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Leslie Gordon Fiddler will make their home in Victoria.

The couple exchanged marriage vows Friday evening at St. Luke's Anglican Church in a ceremony performed by Canon F. Pike. Mrs. Fiddler is the former June Sheila Mosure, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Mosure, 1505 Oakdale Avenue. The groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. George Fiddler, 2642 Blackwood Street.

A lovely floral effect had been arranged with sweet peas and carnations on the altar, large baskets of peonies and delphiniums at the chancel and colonial bouquets of sweet peas marking guest pews.

For the ceremony the bride chose a full length gown of white nylon net over taffeta, the strapless bodice being of Chantilly lace over net and the lace redingote featuring a Peter Pan collar and tiny buttons to the waist, the front skirt opening having a scalloped edge to the hemline. Her flowers were red roses and stephanotis in a cascade bouquet. She was given in marriage by her father.

Mrs. George Bessier, sister of the groom, was matron of honor, wearing a gown of yellow net with matching headband, and carrying a bouquet of mauve gladioli and white carnations. Miss Jocelyn Simpson of Massett, Queen Charlotte Islands, in pink net with matching headband, and Miss Mary Quist of Westholme, gown similarly in green, were bridesmaids. Each carried gladioli and carnations.

The groom had his brother, George Fiddler, as best man and the bride's brother, Larry Mosure, and Stan Pollard were ushers.

Reception was held at the home of the groom's aunt, 2616 Blackwood Street. Mrs. Mosure assisted in receiving, wearing a two-piece grey dress with pink accessories, and Mrs. Fiddler was in dark green with tan accessories. Both wore pink rosebud corsages. A three-tier wedding cake surrounded with white tulle and tiny rosebuds, was cut by the happy couple and W. H. S. Glew proposed the bride's toast. Servers were the Misses Esther Munsen, Darlene Robertson, Kay Cuthbertson and Marie Merriman.

For traveling, Mrs. Fiddler wore a pink linen suit with navy and white accessories and a gardenia corsage.

Garden Party to Help With Work at the Sunshine Camp

Members of Esquimalt Chapter, IOOE, are sponsoring a garden party next Wednesday afternoon at the home of Reeve and Mrs. A. C. Wurtele, 321 Plaskett Place, off Munro Street, commencing at 2.30 p.m. There will be sewing, candy, home cooking, superfluities and plants will be sold. Afternoon tea will be served. Proceeds will be used for chapter projects, including two needy families in the British Isles, an adopted school at Kyuquot, annual scholarship of $50 to a student of Esquimalt High School; a runner-up prize of $10 to a grade 8 pupil in Lampson Street School, the Hugh Creelman citizenship trophy and $125 for secondary education.

Also included in chapter projects is a two-bed hospital at Fred Lansberg Sunshine Camp. Equipped first in 1931 by Esquimalt Chapter as a nursery at the camp as a memorial to the late Mrs. Henry Croft, a former regent, this large, airy cottage (one room at that time) was completely equipped in 1932 and up until two years ago was used as a nursery. Last year, at the request of the Family and Children's Service, a small bedroom was built on for the camp nurse. The cottage has been rewired by the chapter and new inlaid linoleum laid and the walls redecorated. This spring a new duroid roof was put on and in the fall it is hoped to have the outside painted.

Daughter of Happy Valley Pioneers Principal in Wedding at Colwood

Verna May Rhode, daughter of a pioneer family of Happy Valley, exchanged marriage vows, Saturday night, with Kenneth George Langrish, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Langrish, Sooke Road. The ceremony took place in St. John's Anglican Church, Colwood, and the bride, daughter of Mrs. Eva Rhode and the late Mr. Albert Rhode, was given in marriage by her eldest brother, Clarence (Mick) Rhode of Vancouver. Lovely floral setting was composed of roses and pink and white peonies, with white sweet peas marking the guest pews. Rev. H. J. Jones officiated.

J. Flatman presided at the organ and during signing of the register, Mrs. Flatman sang "O Perfect Love."

French Cantilly lace styled the floor length bridal gown, the slender bodice dipping front and back in a Queen Anne waistline and featuring a row of tiny buttons, lily point sleeves and Peter Pan collar. The bouffant skirt of net and lace, creating a plump effect. A tiara encrusted with seed pearls and diamante caught the billowing three-quarter length veil and red rosebuds and white sweet peas fashioned her crescent shaped bouquet.

Mrs. George Blogg, a lifelong friend of the bride, attended her and had chosen a pale blue georgette gown enhanced with Chantilly lace and having graceful cape sleeves. Pink gloves and a tiara of blue forget-me-nots set in pleated tulle across her hair completed the ensemble. Shaded pink feathered carnations in a cascade bouquet were her flowers. Douglas Hanson was best man and ushers were Norman Rhode, brother of the bride, and Walter Gwyer.

One hundred and twenty relatives and friends attended a reception in the parish hall, where Mrs. Rhode and Mrs. Langrish assisted in receiving, the former wearing a frock of beau blue crepe trimmed with lace and feathered pink carnation corsage, and the latter, pale blue silk with corsage of red carnations.

Maroon and white sweet peas decorated the bride's table, which was centred with a three-tier wedding cake, topped with

If you've thought of lace as too fragile to wear for anything but formal occasions, this year you can revise your opinion. Laces have been made of fibres sturdy enough for daytime wear. In fact, we've seen a shirt-waist dress made entirely of lace.

Hawaiian Theme at Banquet of Alpha Phi

Seattle Alumnae Chapter acted as hostesses when college and alumnae members of Alpha Phi Fraternity gathered in the Crystal Ballroom at the Empress Hotel Sunday evening for the opening banquet of a week-long convention. Mrs. Towpley Bale and Mrs. John L. Robins acted as hostesses.

Lovely anthurium and orchids flown from the Hawaiian Islands decorated tables which were covered with turquoise fish nets sprinkled with iridescent sea shells. Great glass floats and hundreds of vanda orchids were arranged with pink and green ti leaves.

Each member and guest at the speakers' table wore a colorful carnation lei. Dean P. R. Beattie pronounced the invocation.

Mrs. William H. Hutchinson, national Panhellenic delegate for Alpha Phi was toastmistress.

To Know Is to Understand

Senator Nancy Hodges in addressing members of Alpha Phi Fraternity in the Empress Hotel Sunday evening, stressed the fact that the key to understanding is knowledge.

"If there is one thing more than another which makes for international unity it is a real knowledge and understanding... and tolerance... of the other fellow's point of view," she pointed out.

Enlarging on the theme of the fraternity convention, "Faith in Fraternity Future," Senator Hodges spoke of the need of joint faith in the fraternal... or neighborly... future of the United States and Canada.

"If there are any two countries on the globe which are more justified in having faith in the continuance of their fraternal relations it is these two countries," she said.

"Our relations in the past have been such as to demonstrate that our two countries, both proud, independent and individualistic nations living at each other's door, can retain their independence and individuality while maintaining a partnership unequalled anywhere else in the world.

"That partnership can be maintained and strengthened if we continue to exercise frankness in the exchange of opinions, a readiness to appreciate each other's point of view... even when such views may seem to conflict or to hurt the other's economic or political interests."

Senator Hodges pointed out that knowledge is the key to complete understanding between our two countries. Canadians must know more about the United States and Americans must strive to find out the truth about Canada.

"This is a challenge to every woman in both our countries to play her part... no matter how small... in building up a sane and sound public opinion which will insist, not only upon documentary material to offset misplaced emphasis and distortions but also demand a return

Victorians soon will be receiving a stronger, clearer TV image from Tacoma's television station KNTN.

On Wednesday the station will begin using a new transmitter, situated 14 miles closer to Victoria than the existing station. A series of tests at reduced power will be broadcast for several days before KNTN increases to the new power output of 316,000 watts.

The former power was 125,000 watts.

The antenna for the new transmitter will be 325 feet higher than the old one.

Reception of KNTN-TV, expected to be greatly improved in the Victoria area. Set-owners are being advised that changes will be needed for their aerials since the new transmitter site is almost in line with the existing station.

Foresters Plan Fair At Todd Park Saturday

A Foresters' family fair will get under way at Todd Park at 2 p.m. next Saturday, with a program of games for young and old and a variety of stalls for homecooking, candy and other items. Todd Park is at Niagara and Montreal Streets in the James Bay district.

Final plans for the fair, sponsored by the Court Victoria, No. 1004, Independent Order of Foresters, were made at the regular meeting of the IOF on the week-end.

IOF officials also announced that the annual IOF picnic of the Court Victoria and the Court Garden City will be held at Elk Lake July 25.

During the meeting, Don Branner, acting for the IOF High Court of B.C., presented Stan Jones, local court bowling team captain, with the Inter-League bowling championship shield, symbol of bowling supremacy among B.C. IOF courts.

The Victoria team captured the championship in Vancouver recently. It also won the Duncan inter-court bowling roll-off in recent play-offs.

Governor-General to Open Show Tonight; James Mason Stars in 'Measure for Measure'

STRATFORD, Ont. (BUP)—The Stratford Shakespearean Festival opens its second season tonight with a performance of "Measure for Measure," starring British actor James Mason.

More than 300 dignitaries were among the 1,900 who had tickets for the opening night. They included Governor-General Vincent Massey and his party and representatives of the governments of New Zealand and Pakistan. Some 150 drama critics from as far away as Los Angeles came here to cover the performance.

Tonight's opening will be followed by the "Taming of the Shrew" Tuesday night, and then the two will alternate until mid-July, when "Oedipus Rex" will be added to the program.

The festival was scheduled for eight weeks this year, instead of last year's four, but a month before opening night all the tickets were sold for week-ends, Wednesday night and matinees. Ticket clerks already

EVA VON GENCSY

Montreal TV Lures Eva From Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (BUP) — The Royal Winnipeg Ballet suffered today their third severe loss in three weeks: the "Lady That's Known as Lou."

Eva Von Gency, dark-haired attractive leading ballerina of the Royal Winnipeg, disclosed in an interview she was leaving the royalty-sponsored ballet company to dance before television cameras in Montreal for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Miss Von Gency achieved continent-wide fame as "The Lady That's Known as Lou" in the original Canadian ballet based on the boisterous but tragic ballad of the northland by Robert Service, "The Shooting of Dan McGrew." The ballerina was born in Budapest, Hungary, "about 30" years ago and came to Canada in 1948.

Her departure from Winnipeg will be a big loss to the ballet company, which is fighting for survival after suffering a disastrous $40,000 loss in the fire that destroyed five downtown city blocks here on June 8.

Composer Casadesu Dies in Paris at 83

PARIS (AP)—Francis Casadesu, 83, composer, conductor and dean of the celebrated Casadesu family, died Sunday in hospital.

His first works, symphonic poems, were written and performed in the early 1900s. His other compositions included opera, oratorio and many songs. As a conductor he was well known in most of the larger cities of Europe.

FOUR-DAY STATE VISIT

Swedish Royal Family Welcomed to Britain

LONDON (Reuters) — Blue and yellow Swedish flags fluttered all over London today as Britain turned out her royal pomp and ceremony to welcome King Gustaf Adolf and Queen Louise of Sweden here on a four-day state visit.

Cheering crowds and hooting flag-decked tugs greeted the elderly northern monarchs as they traveled up the Thames River in the Swedish cruiser Tre Kronor.

The Duke of Edinburgh, Queen Louise's nephew, was the first to welcome them. He boarded the cruiser when it reached Greenwich naval centre on London's eastern outskirts. Queen Elizabeth, also distantly related to the Swedish royal family, waited to greet them upriver at Westminster. After her, the Queen Mother, Princess Margaret and other members of the Royal Family

Red China Major Question Dividing Churchill, Ike

WASHINGTON (UP)—The most distressing thing in the whole picture of the Eisenhower-Churchill discussions is that on the one big question dividing the president and the prime minister, neither seems able to give an inch.

That question is how to deal with Red China. The British want to expand their diplomatic and trade relationship a warning to the Communists to offer the French honorable terms to end the war.

DISCUSSED ASIA

The two leaders discussed Southeast Asia and "examined" the situation which would arise from the conclusion of an agreement on Indo-China.

They also "considered" the situation which would follow from failure of Indo-China peace negotiations.

"We will press forward with plans for collective defense to meet with either eventualities," the communiqué said.

The communiqué said a second statement on "basic principles" underlying British and American policy—probably a kind of harmony statement—will be issued Tuesday.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty disclosed that Churchill will have another meeting with the President beginning at 8 a.m. EDT Tuesday.

This morning's meeting, lasting two hours, had been scheduled as the first of their sessions. Churchill departs Tuesday for Ottawa. (See story page 3.)

with the Chinese Communist government, Sir Winston Churchill would give Communism at least one more chance to live up to a written promise. His Conservative British government is not yet committed to admitting Red China to the United Nations. But British policy obviously leads in that direction.

The United States wants no diplomatic association with Red China, emphatically opposes its admission to the United Nations, and is not disposed to accept the good faith of any foreseeable Communist promise, written or oral, Chinese or Russian.

The British side put on a little sledge play over the week-end about which Mr. Eisenhower merely had to read in the newspapers. It was accomplished by a salvo of speeches delivered in Great Britain.

Toronto Lawyer May Enter Dr. Valdmanis Case

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The preliminary hearing of fraud charges against Dr. Alfred A. Valdmanis today was postponed for eight days.

The hearing, postponed several times already, was scheduled to open in camera. It was postponed from last week when Attorney-General Curtis said the RCMP had not completed investigations.

No reason was given for today's postponement. Dr. Valdmanis, former director of economic development

48th CEF Remember Buddies With Plaque in Legislature

Memories of buddies who died on the battlefields of France in the First World War were foremost in the minds of veterans of the old 48th Battalion, CEF, Saturday when they unveiled a plaque in their honor and to perpetuate the famous fighting unit.

The unveiling ceremony in the rotunda of the Legislative Buildings in the afternoon highlighted the 39th annual reunion program of the famous battalion.

Inscription on the plaque is: "To commemorate the last resting place of the 48th Battalion, C.E.F.; raised by patriotism May, 1915; killed by politics, May, 1917. RIP."

Wordings duplicate a marker erected in England; when the battalion was disbanded and its men transferred to other Canadian units.

The reunion day was climaxed with a father-and-son banquet in the evening in Lougheed's Banquet Club.

Present were a number of sons who took up arms to down the same enemy their fathers had subdued a little over 20 years before.

"The 48th will continue to live on after the last member has been put under the sod," said Jack Cleator, Victoria veteran of the 48th, at the reunion banquet.

The battalion, given a tremendous send-off from Victoria, was converted into a pioneer unit for its first year of operations in France.

The "killed by politics" phrase on the plaque refers to when the battalion was finally broken up to provide reinforcements for infantry units because of the lack of reinforcements from this province.

The reunion atmosphere was evidence that much of the spirit of the old veterans' battalion is very much alive.

During the evening veterans forgot the grimmer side of war on the bloody, muddy fields of

Two B.C. Men Drown Trying to Rescue Boy

Tragedy Strikes Immigrants' Fishing Party On Fraser River; U.S. Visitor Third Victim

From BUP and CP Dispatches

Two New Westminster men lost their lives Sunday in a heroic attempt to rescue the son of one from the Fraser River.

Dead are: John Zamaitas, 34, and John Bulfonas, 28.

Zamaitas' eight-year-old son, Wilus, was thrown into the river off a log boom when Bulfonas caught a fish hook in the boy's pants.

The two men dove in after the boy and Zamaitas got his son on his shoulders.

A third member of the fishing party, John Belesis, 32, was in a car when he heard the two men yelling for help. He ran down to the shore and onto the log boom, but by that time the two men had disappeared under the water.

Belesis threw the boy a long strip of bark from the log boom and then dragged him to safety.

The RCMP and civilians dragged the river for two and a half hours before the bodies were recovered Sunday night about 30 feet from shore.

The men were members of a party of nine Lithuanian immigrants on a fishing picnic.

In another drowning fatality Theodore Russell Larsen, 19, of Bellingham, Wash., lost his life when his small boat was swamped in Harrison Lake. A companion, David Charles Thomas, also of Bellingham, swam 60 feet to shore.

Section Hand Charged With Killing Woman

PORT ARTHUR, Ont. (CP)—Raffaele Esposito, 30, today was charged with murder in the bludgeoning slaying of a woman.

Mrs. Hedwig Kopplin, attractive blond wife of a German immigrant, at the lonely flagstop of Kelly, 80 miles west of here.

Inspector Jack Craig of the Ontario provincial police laid the charge against the former barber who has been working as a railway section hand in northwestern Ontario.

Esposito was arrested last Monday at Larsen, six miles from Kelly, where he was employed with a section gang. Police said he formerly worked with a section gang at Kelly, where Mrs. Kopplin was the only woman.

Police said Mrs. Kopplin was found beaten to death with a heavy instrument. Her home and outbuildings had been set ablaze, police said. In the ruins of the dwelling, police found the charred bodies of her children, Rinehart, five, and Rita, 10.

'Look Out', He Says, 'Or You'll Get Locked In'

Hot and heavy words were tossed back and forth today when H. H. Woodhead threw garbage on a scow at city's garbage wharf. W. G. Hook, in charge of wharf, was involved with Mr. Woodhead in vocal

Leaders Agree To Press for Asia Defense

Eisenhower, Churchill Prod France To Ratify European Army Plan

WASHINGTON (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill and President Eisenhower declared today they will "press forward with plans for collective defense" of Southeast Asia, regardless of whether peace negotiations for Indo-

China are successful. In a communique, they also expressed "conviction that further delay" in the creation of a European Defense Community and granting of sovereignty to West Germany "would damage the solidarity of the Atlantic nations."

This was apparently intended to prod France to get on with ratification of EDC.

On another major point, the American and British leaders jointly declared that "both our countries would benefit" from "technical co-operation" on atomic energy to the fullest extent permitted by United States law.

The communique, issued at the White House, was the first formal statement out of the four-day round of talks here on British-American policy differences.

The communique left unanswered the critical question of when an international conference to create a Southeast Asia anti-Communist alliance might be called.

This has been a major issue, with Britain wanting no definite action pending a conclusion of present French efforts to negotiate peace in Indo-China.

The United States on the other hand desires quick action. The communique appeared to bear out reports on continued disagreement by failure to report any agreement.

"We are both convinced" the communique said, "that if at Geneva the French government is confronted with demands which prevent an acceptable agreement regarding Indo-China, the international situation will be seriously aggravated."

This was one of three terse paragraphs dealing with the Southeast Asia, and it set forth (Continued on Page 23)

Chou, Nehru Propose Using Tibet Formula

Red China, India Leaders Offer Plan For Settlement of War in Indo-China

From UP and AP Dispatches

NEW DELHI, India—Red China's premier-foreign minister Chou En-Lai and Indian prime minister Jawahar Nehru today recommended an Indo-China settlement similar to the China-India "non-aggression" agreement on the future of Tibet.

In that agreement India withdrew all her troops from the Tibetan trade routes, surrendered "at a reasonable price" all communications and other installation and recognized Tibet as "the Tibet Region of China."

The two premiers, in a joint statement issued following Chou's visit here, expressed hope that the Tibetan formula would be applied in Indo-China "where political settlement should be aimed at the creation of free, democratic, unified and independent states which should not be used for aggressive purposes or subjected to foreign intervention."

Sources close to Chou's delegation arrived at this estimate of the Chinese leader's plan: Chou hopes with India's active assistance to build a stout Asian wall both politically and economically and thus oust Western interests.

The keystone of his program is "Asia for the Asians" and its aim is to combat so-called colonialism.

Citizen Incarcerated On City Wharf

Police Called To End Dispute

By TONY DICKASON

Metal gates clanged shut, and chain and padlock incarcerated a Victoria citizen today who went to the city's garbage wharf to dump garbage.

H. H. Woodhead, 1577 Brook Street, owner of the Jolly Friar restaurant, was locked on the wharf, with his car, following a vocal dispute with "inside" city worker W. G. Hook, who looks after the wharf.

Ten striking "outside" city workers picketed the wharf, and nonchalantly tossed a handball as the argument mounted.

A city policeman arrived, and in the face of accusations and counter accusations between Mr. Woodhead and Mr. Hook, suggested the affair be carried on in private. All adjourned to the wharf office.

Loud voices still boomed, easily heard.

In the general melee, what seems to have happened is that Mr. Woodhead took garbage to the wharf, with the firm intention of getting rid of it. He dumped it on the garbage scow anchored there. This procedure annoyed Mr. Hook, who would have preferred garbage to have been placed in incinerators.

"He just threw it on the scow," said Mr. Hook indignantly.

But Mr. Woodhead said the incinerators were locked, so he couldn't very well put his garbage there.

He was locked on the wharf from 10:45 to 11:15. Mr. Hook unlocked the gate after the confab with the police in the wharf office.

'Strike Still On', Says Wyatt
Union Leaders Refuse Comment

By DAVE STOCK

Hope for an immediate end to the 12-day-old strike by city outside workers failed to materialize after officers of the union met with officials at city hall for 2½ hours today.

At the conclusion of the long session, union spokesmen would say nothing. City manager Cecil Wyatt said only, "the strike is still on."

It was understood members of the union at a meeting Sunday night voted in favor of returning to work while their dispute with the city was resolved by arbitration.

This was in accordance with a request made by City Council Friday.

At the same time the union's agreement to resort to this course was acknowledged to be "conditional," and it was presumed the city was not prepared to meet all of the conditions.

Some of the 250 men concerned in the walk-out earlier today had expressed hopes they would be back at work Tuesday.

There was no indication of any further meetings between the two sides later in the day. Officers of the union and their solicitor, J. Ronald Grant, met with city manager Wyatt for three-quarters of an hour then went with the manager to see the mayor. That meeting lasted one hour and a half.

Pegler Guilty Of Libel, Judge Rules

NEW YORK (AP)—Federal Judge Edward Winfield told a jury today that columnist Westbrook Pegler clearly had libelled author Quentin Reynolds in a 1949 column. He said Reynolds is entitled to damages.

It will be up to the jury to determine the amount.

Reynolds filed the $500,000 libel suit against Pegler and Hearst Publications, charging the writer in a 1949 column called him pro-Communist, immoral, a coward, a war profiteer, a slacker and an absentee war correspondent.

Reynolds said the column, published in 186 newspapers, caused Collier's magazine to drop him after 17 well-paid years, and made him "dead" in radio, television and Hollywood.

Flo Chadwick to Take First Dip In Cadboro Bay on Thursday

Florence Chadwick will take her first dip in Victoria waters at Cadboro Bay between 3 and 3:30 p.m. Thursday, her head coach, Archie McKinnon, announced today.

Miss Chadwick is due to arrive at Pat Bay Airport at 10:30 Thursday, and after reception and lunch, plans to get down to her five weeks training grind immediately.

Mr. McKinnon says he does not want Florence to take a long swim the first day. "It will be a question of getting acclimatized to our waters for the first few days," he said. "She had been doing a training routine in indoor pools in recent weeks, but they are usually 70 to 75 degrees. It will take her a little while to get used to the lower temperature of the Strait."

Miss Chadwick will drive to Victoria from the airport in an Oldsmobile convertible placed at her disposal for her stay here by Wilson Motors Ltd. She has booked space at the Cadboro Auto Court for her training period.

Fred Manning, vice-president of B.A. Paint Company which is posting the $10,000 prize for Florence's swim, will meet her at the airport with Times publisher Stuart Keate, and accompany her to town.

Her arrival Thursday will stimulate interest in the estimating contest on her swim sponsored by Bapco and The Times to help Queen Alexandra Solarium. Official coupons, 1 hour 58 mins.

Reds Banned By New Regime In Guatemala

British Ship Hit in Harbor

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—The Guatemala government radio announced today the new government junta has outlawed the Communist party in that embattled country.

The rebel radio broadcast a declaration saying "We do not recognize" the new junta formed Sunday night.

71-Year Climber Only Survivor of Mt. Api Assault

NEW DELHI, India (Reuters)—An Italian Himalayan expedition has conquered 23,399-foot Mount Api in northwestern Nepal, but paid the highest penalty in recent mountaineering history for success.

Three of the four Italian mountaineers died in the attempt. Only the fourth, the leader, Piero Ghiglione, 71, is returning. A broken man, to New Delhi.

George Rosencratz and Joseph Barenghi made the final successful attempt on the summit in the first half of June. Trapped by monsoon blizzards they perished 20,000 feet up on the mountain.

Earlier, before the assault began, Roberto Bignami, another Italian mountaineer, was killed when he fell from a log bridge into the foaming river Kall on the Indo-Nepal frontier.

Two B.C. Men Drown Trying to Rescue Boy

Tragedy Strikes Immigrants' Fishing Party On Fraser River; U.S. Visitor Third Victim

From BUP and CP Dispatches
Two New Westminster men lost their lives Sunday in a heroic attempt to rescue the son of one of them from the Fraser River.

Dead are: John Zamaitas, 34, and John Bulvonas, 28. Zamaitas' eight-year-old son, Wilus, was thrown into the river off a log boom when Bulvonas caught a fish hook in the boy's pants.

The two men dove in after the boy and Zamaitas got his son on to his shoulders.

A third member of the fishing party, John Beleis, 32, was in a car when he said he heard the two men yelling for help. He ran down to the shore and onto the log boom, but by that time the two men had disappeared under the water.

Beleis threw the boy a long strip of bark from the log boom and then dragged him to safety.

The RCMP and civilians dragged the river for two and a half hours before the bodies were recovered Sunday night about 30 feet from shore.

The men were members of a party of nine Lithuanian immigrants on a fishing picnic. In another drowning fatality Theodore Russell Larsen, 19, of Bellingham, Wash., lost his life when his small boat was swamped in Harrison Lake, a companion, David Charles Thomas, also of Bellingham, swam 60 feet to shore.

Churchill Stands Fast On Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill made a plea today for a "real good try" for peaceful co-existence with Russia to minimize the risk of a conflict which would leave us victorious on a heap of ruins.

Urging a "patient, cool, friendly examination" of Russia's intentions, he rejected the notion advanced by many American officials that the Russians cannot be trusted and will not co-operate with peaceful efforts.

Churchill also intimated in a series of question-and-answer comments at a press luncheon that Britain's position on creation of a Southeast Asia security pact is that no such pact should be negotiated in fact before the outcome of French peace talks with the Communists is known—late next month.

Leaders Agree To Press for Asia Defense

Eisenhower, Churchill Prod France To Ratify European Army Plan

WASHINGTON (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill and President Eisenhower declared today they will "press forward with plans for collective defense" of Southeast Asia, regardless of whether peace negotiations for Indo-

China are successful.

In a communique, they also expressed "conviction that further delay" in the creation of a European Defense Community and granting of sovereignty to West Germany "would damage the solidarity of the Atlantic nations."

This was apparently intended to prod France to get on with ratification of EDC.

On another major point, the American and British leaders jointly declared that "both our countries would benefit" from "technical co-operation" on atomic energy to the fullest extent permitted by United States law.

The communique, issued at the White House, was the first formal statement out of the four-day round of talks here on British-American policy differences.

The communique left unanswered the critical question of when an international conference to create a Southeast Asia anti-Communist alliance might be called.

This has been a major issue, with Britain wanting no definite action pending a conclusion

First Commercial Find Is Announced

The first commercial oil discovery in the history of British Columbia was made today 45 miles from Fort St. John in the Peace River area.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett announced in Victoria that "B.C. is in the oil business," with the proving of Pacific West Buick Creek Number 3.

"We have lots of gas wells up there," said the premier, "but this is the first oil well in B.C." He was informed of the news through a phone call from George McMahon, head of Pacific Petroleum.

"Geologists have known for some time that the Peace River had great oil possibilities. The government hopes this first well will be the site of a large field."

The discovery well struck oil-bearing sands in a Nika Nasses formation 28 feet thick. Premier Bennett said the oil was of "good quality" with a gravity of 35-37.

First drillstem tests showed 110 feet of oil, the second 2,780 feet, and the third 440 feet. In 1951 a similar discovery could not be separated from large quantities of water in the oil pool, and the well was later abandoned.
